Madison annexes 400 acres

Extends city limits from Granite City to East St. Louis

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — With a blockbuster series of annexations Tuesday night, the city increased its size by about 400 acres.

More annexations will be forthcoming, Mayor John Bellcoff told the City Council.

The city now includes just about all the property on the east side of Illinois 203 from the city's boundary with Granite City all the way to the Interstate 55-70 interchange at the boundary of East St. Louis.

It also extended its boundaries east to Illinois 111 by annexing the Alton &

Southern Railway Co. right of way that crosses Horseshoe Lake and separates Horseshoe Lake from a slough area.

"In a short time, we will be coming back to the council with some major projects and further annexations," Bellcoff told the council.

Bellcoff said Wednesday he was negotiating with several developers interested in parts of the annexed properties, but he declined to name them.

Most of the annexed property will be zoned for business uses, Mike Macek said. He is working for the city as a consultant.

Alderman Ron Grzywacz, who has been at odds frequently with the mayor, complimented Bellcoff and Macek, whom the mayor hired a couple of months ago. Macek did a lot of the leg-work and negotiating with the property owners, who had to petition the city to be annexed.

"I know that several other cities were trying to get this property," Grzywacz said.

The annexed parcels consist of:

- 119 acres between Illinois 203 and Horseshoe Lake and north and west of the Alton & Southern line referred to previously. This property had been previously annexed but had to be annexed again because of a technicality, Macek said.

- 42.7 acres owned by William H. Clara S. and Helen A. Aufderheide and Leona Briggs, located between Horseshoe Lake and Illinois 203 and straddling Big Bend Road.

- 20.6 acres owned by the Interurban Broadcasting Co., north of the Cahokia Canal and east of Illinois 203, and a strip west of 203 and south of the canal.

- 6.9 acres west of the Alton & Southern line between Horseshoe Lake and an old Illinois Terminal Railroad line that runs between Illinois 203 and 162.

- 61 acres of the aforementioned Alton & Southern right of way west to Illinois 111.

- 137.4 acres, owned by Consolidated Rail Corp. of Pennsylvania, straddling U.S. 40 south to the boundaries of Fairmont City and East St. Louis.

There are only three residents on the entirety of the annexed property.

Bellcoff said the annexations would cost the city nothing other than the legal fees involved.

But he said both the petitioners and the city would benefit: the former by getting police and fire protection, and the latter by future tax dollars from businesses that might locate on the annexed properties.

Granite leaf fires still hot

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — While taking another step closer to allowing leaf burning, the City Council also decided Tuesday to purchase a $19,000 leaf vacuum machine that runs between Illinois 203 and 162.

The ordinance would allow leaf burning from 1 to 5 p.m. beginning the first Saturday of October and continuing through the first Sunday in December.

Other restrictions include:

- Limiting burning to days the wind speed does not exceed 30 mph.

- Burning can only be done on the property of the person responsible for the burning.

- Burning must be done under direct and constant supervision and control of the responsible person.

Burning cannot create a visibility problem for motorists or a nuisance for neighbors.

Burning is not allowed on public streets, sidewalks, alleys or rights-of-way.

The ordinance will come up for final passage at the City Council meeting Wednesday, Sept. 20.

That meeting will be preceded by a meeting of the Sanitation Committee, called by Chairman Judy Whitaker, 6th Ward alderman.

She hopes to at least begin hammering out an alternative leaf disposal plan at that meeting.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse called the leaf vacuum machine a "leaf sucker-upper" at the last meeting and the name stuck. The machine is designed to be an alternative to burning of leaves.

It is part of an as-yet-unfinalized leaf disposal plan that was promised when leaf burning was banned last year.

In 1988, leaf burning had also been banned, but the ban was lifted by the aldermen after an alternative plan for disposal was not introduced.

Last year, leaves were bagged and picked up by city-contracted trash haulers. A state-mandated ban on yard waste in landfills, however, makes that alternative impossible this year.

Some trash haulers will dispose of yard waste, but that service is not included in the city trash contract, so citizens must Temperatures in the local area dropped 18 degrees, from 72 to 54, in a nine-hour period as the result of the tail end of a terrible gale sweeping Lake Superior. Effects of the gale were felt as far south as Arkansas.

COMING HOME IN THE RAIN: Friends, sharing a secret, Christina Odeli, 7, left, and Katesha Payne, 6, don't seem to mind the cold rain Tuesday as they walk home from Lake Elementary School.

Local men drive into 'shale pit'

EDWARDSVILLE — Two Granite City men had a brush with death Friday when their car plunged into 50 feet of water in an old quarry.

Michael D. Kramer, 29, and Thomas McGowan, 27, had driven onto property at the south end of Florida Street, near Edwardsville High School, to look at what Kramer remembered as a good fishing spot. The quarry is known as the "shale pit."

As they drove down a path near the quarry shortly before noon, the front wheels of McGowan's 1969 Mercury Cougar convertible hit a gully, making the car lurch, which in turn caused McGowan's foot to jam on the accelerator.

The car rocketed over the edge of the cliff and landed in the water about 25 feet from shore and 12 feet below the edge of the cliff.

Missing smoke detector raises alarm

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The smoke alarm didn't go off when Teri Biggs' apartment filled with smoke Tuesday evening.

The alarm was removed in anger by one of Biggs' relatives after it went off while he was cooking. The hole in the ceiling, from which several wires dangled, remained mute during Tuesday's emergency.

And while tragedy was averted, city officials are experiencing yet another headache with this apartment building in the 2000 block of Missouri Avenue.

Biggs wasn't home when the Fire Department was called to her apartment after wiring in a poorly installed air conditioner caused some insulation to overheat. But her three children, aged 10, 9 and 6 months, were there with Biggs' sister and Teri Biggs arrived shortly after the firemen.

Biggs said the window air conditioner, which had been installed for her by a friend who had jury-rigged the wiring, has been permanently disconnected. Further damage to the building Tuesday was avoided because a resident shut off electricity to the building soon after someone smelled smoke.

Although it was not a blazing fire, it could have been a tragedy, Biggs admitted. The smoke alarm was replaced Wednesday.

Biggs said she will not live without a smoke alarm again.

Getting the smoke alarm replaced makes Assistant Fire Chief Bobby Bell happy, but it doesn't relieve all his fears about the building.

"I can't make them clean house or control kids; but I can make them put in smoke alarms and have proper exits."

—Assistant Fire Chief Bob Bell

Bell said he was appalled at what he saw at the building: "There were all these little bitty kids running around. One little girl couldn't stop crying and we kept trying to reassure her we were there to help."

Disturbed by what he felt were hazardous conditions, Bell said, he went to Building Inspector John Jakich on Wednesday to have the occupancy permits pulled if smoke alarms were not re-installed.

"I can't make them clean house or control kids, but I can make them put in smoke alarms and have proper exits," Bell said.

Jakich said Wednesday he and his assistant Ira Smith were going out to the building to inspect it and to pass along the smoke alarm warning to the landlords, Steve and Karen Harster of Granite City.

Jakich has a large file on the building, which was about to be torn down by the city when the Harsters bought it.

"Sometimes I wish we had torn it down," he said.

But Jakich likes the Harsters and said they have always done everything the city told them to do. The Harsters completely rebuilt the interior of the building and rewired it. Jakich said the apartments have been inspected and occupancy permits issued every time the tenants change.

"They're not bad landlords," Jakich said. "They do have some tenants who tear things up."

Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney, who spearheaded the effort to tear the building down before the Harsters bought it, said he still wants the building torn down.

Partney said a person only has to "look at the building" to be convinced there must be flaws in the inspection process.

Karen Harster said, "I know it was condemned before. It was a dump when we bought it, but it's not a dump any more."

"It's not going to be condemned. There is nothing to condemn it for. It's not dilapidated."

Karen Harster said she replaced the smoke alarms, even though they were torn out by tenants, just as she and her husband always repair things as soon as they are brought to their attention.

"Ira (Smith) and John (Jakich) are welcome to inspect our building any time and they know it," she said.

It's got new ceilings, new floors, new bathroom fixtures. It's not like some places. The floors aren't sagging. The sewage isn't backed up. We keep everything up to code."

Biggs said the near-fire was caused by something she did, not the Harsters. The Harsters, she said, have always done any repairs she requested, including adding a

Cigarette machine looted; vehicles burglarized, burned

Somebody made off with 200 packs of cigarettes from a vending machine in the basement of City Hall.

A representative of the vending machine company, Quality Distributing Co. of Edwardsville, told police the machine was faulty in that, if one pulled hard enough, a pack would pop out without anyone inserting money.

He said such an act makes a loud noise, which led police to believe the cigarettes were probably taken while City Hall was closed or largely empty.

The cigarettes, valued at $1.75 a pack, were taken sometime within a week prior to the date the theft was reported, Sept. 18.

noon of Sept. 15. The worker told police he had told the men not to take the items.

Vehicle stolen, set afire

A car owned by Stanley Jones of the 300 block of Meredocia Street in Venice was stolen during the night of Sept. 14-15 while it was parked on the north parking lot of Granite City Steel. The car was found burned at 1 a.m. in Madison.

Cars on lot burglarized

Somebody burglarized four cars on the lot of Sunshine Auto Sales, 3022 Nameoki Road, during the night of Sept. 14-15. The steering column in one car was damaged in an apparent attempt to steal the vehicle. Windows were broken in the other three. Taken were two radio speakers, a radio and a stereo equalizer.

Motor homes burglarized

Somebody burglarized seven motor homes on the lot of Gell's RV Sales, Illinois 3 and St. Thomas Road, during the night of Sept. 17-18. Taken were five citizens band radios, a regular radio, a stereo radio, an audio cassette player, a coffeemaker and a color television set. All the motor homes were on consignment for sale.

Truck stolen and burned

A truck belonging to Stephen Knogl of Westgate Drive was stolen from O-B Auto Repair, 15th and State streets, where he had left it Sept. 15.

The car was found burning at 5:10 a.m. the next day in the 1300 block of 19th Street. The fire was extinguished by the Granite City Fire Department but the truck had already been destroyed and its license plates stolen.

The repair shop was also burglarized, by breaking in the front door. Taken were miscellaneous power and hand tools and two sets of keys. The business is owned by John Obucina.

Men steal metal items

A man working at the fire-damaged Golden Tavern building, 1800 State St., told police four or five men drove off with five scrap iron radiators and five 20-foot I-beams on the after-

Burglar frightened away

Ruth Noeth of the 2300 block of Clark Avenue told police somebody entered the screened-in porch of her residence at about 2:40 a.m. Sept. 16 while she was asleep. When she screamed, the man ran away.

Popeye's burglarized

A burglar took a transmitter/receiver from a drive-through window at Popeye's Fried Chicken, 2808 Madison Ave., during the night of Sept. 16-17.

Protection order cited

Dale W. Endicott, 27, of the 2000 block of Edison Avenue was arrested on two warrants Sept. 17 for violation of an order of protection. The warrants stemmed from an earlier incident. The victims were Kristina Way and Melba Barton, both of the same address in the 2900 block of Denver Street.

Apartment burglarized

Richard Shane of the 1700 block of Cleveland Boulevard reported that somebody burglarized his apartment Sept. 15 by forcing open the front door. Taken were two fans, two portable television sets and a woman's purse containing $150 cash and miscellaneous identification.

Don't be an easy crime target, speaker urges

By Robbi Courtaway
Staff writer

Whether it's burglary, robbery or rape, crime doesn't just happen to the other guy. It can happen to you.

That was the message of E.J. "Duke" DuFresne, a security expert who addressed the first 2nd District Police-Business Association security seminar Sept. 12 at the Science Center.

More than 200 St. Louis area business owners, neighborhood leaders, city officials and residents attended the seminar.

DuFresne, a retired colonel with the Army's intelligence unit and a specialist in security training, conducts seminars across the country and now serves as director of security for McWhirter & Murphy of Atlanta, a bank supply firm.

DuFresne, a nine-year volunteer with the rape crisis center in Atlanta, said no one is immune from crime.

"There is no one walking around out there with no providence who is going to protect you," he said.

Alarm systems and other security devices aside, residents and business owners must learn to think like criminals when assessing their own lifestyles and business practices, he said.

People must keep in mind that criminals have two objectives — a payoff and not getting caught.

"They pick on the target that poses the least amount of threat to them," he said. "They interpret what you project as a matter of awareness."

Through real-life scenarios, DuFresne told his audience to project an image.

For instance, the simple act of looking squarely at a suspicious person who comes into a business often is enough to make him become nervous and leave for better pickings, DuFresne said.

Residents or business owners who see a suspicious-looking car and occupant parked outside should open the blinds, and take down the car's license plate number within viewing range of the driver.

In some robberies, the criminal actually follows a potential victim from time to time to see if they are being followed. If they are, they should make a make-like series of turns and see if the car is still behind them.

If it is, don't panic, DuFresne said. Drive to a nearby police station or flag down a passing police car, or go to the nearest service station or convenience store and call police, he said.

Attitude is everything in discouraging personal attacks,

DuFresne said. People need to look like they're looking for trouble, confident, not clutching a purse tightly and looking over their shoulder.

Another important exercise, DuFresne said, is to put yourself in the mind of the criminal and come up with deterrents.

For example, women living alone in an apartment can put a large dog bowl and "beware of dog" sign outside or announce "I've got it, Larry," when answering the door.

One southern business, credited with never having any robberies, owed its success to a terrarium in the window that housed two diamondback rattlesnakes.

"We turn our snakes loose two nights of the week," the sign read. "Guess which ones."

"Let your imagination run wild," DuFresne said.

When traveling, carry a rubber wedge to secure under the motel door, he said.

And when making night deposits at a bank, business owners should be on guard for robbers who may be lurking in bushes, DuFresne said.

The best defense is to have someone else follow in another car, but if that isn't practical, circle the bank slowly and look closely for suspicious activity.

"We kind of put it off (thinking about crime) till tomorrow," DuFresne said. "Don't do it."

Does anybody know what time it is? Man jailed when late for sentencing

By David Migoya
Staff writer

BELEVILLE — A week in jail was enough to make David Lee Smith learn the meaning of punctuality.

The 26-year-old Collinsville resident was greeted Sept. 6 by handcuffs when he arrived 20 minutes late for his sentencing hearing in St. Clair County.

Smith said he thought he was 10 minutes early.

But Circuit Judge Michael O'Malley, who moments earlier had finished sentencing Smith to a year in jail on a drug charge and issued a warrant for his arrest, ordered Smith handcuffed and taken to jail.

Had Smith appeared at the 10 a.m. hearing, he likely would have received the recommended one-year probation sentence.

Seven long days later, Smith appeared before O'Malley again.

This time he was in handcuffs, and wore a County Jail jumpsuit. And he was on time.

Smith's attorney, Randy Kelly, asked O'Malley to vacate the initial sentence and re-sentence Smith.

"I believed I was to be here at 10:30," Smith told O'Malley at the Sept. 13 hearing. "I thought I was early."

St. Clair County Assistant State's Attorney Lisa Porter defended the original sentence.

"It's always a surprise how people are so cavalier about something that is so important," she said.

Yielding to Kelly's request, O'Malley re-sentenced Smith to one year of probation, three months in jail and a $120 fine.

"We have other individuals more suitable for the penitentiary than him," O'Malley said. "Mr. Smith, you're going to learn to have respect for the law."

Before releasing Smith, O'Malley made sure he understood the court's leniency.

"You have the right to appeal this sentence," O'Malley said. "But I wouldn't do it if I were you."

DUIs

Man found asleep in car

Michael S. Hard, 18, of the 600 block of English Place, Mitchell, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Sept. 16 after police found him asleep at the wheel of his car on 25th Street at Delmar Avenue.

Police said that when they found him at 5:09 a.m., smoke was coming from under the hood of his car. Bail was set at $102.

'Lost' driver arrested

Michael L. Bloodworth, 19, of Festus told police he was lost after guards at Granite City Steel summoned them when Bloodworth turned into the Blast Furnace parking lot in the 2300 block of Edwardville Road. The arrest was made shortly before midnight Sept. 15.

Police said Bloodworth was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and was held pending $302 bail.

Motorist booked for DUI

Jerry L. Decker, 41, of the 2400 block of Jorden Avenue was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol Sept. 17 after he was found asleep at the steering wheel of his auto at 24th and Adams streets at 4:44 p.m.

Teens on drugs soon may lose driver's license

By Dennis McMurray
Staff writer

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois teen-agers who don't say no to drugs could be saying goodbye to their driving privileges.

Gov. James R. Thompson gave preliminary approval Sept. 12 to a bill that will go back to the Legislature in November for action on technical changes made by the governor.

Thompson strongly endorsed the concept of the bill that will require the secretary of state to suspend the driving privileges of anyone under the age of 18 convicted of a drug-related offense, committed while driving.

Driving privileges would be revoked for one year for any youth who already has a driver's license and is convicted of a drug offense while in control of a motor vehicle.

Youths convicted of drug offenses before getting a driving permit or license would be ineligible to obtain one until age 18.

Staff Sgt. Mark Morgan
paratrooper in Persian Gulf area

Grenada, Panama veteran now in Persian Gulf area

Former Granite City resident Staff Sgt. Mark J. Morgan, a 14-year veteran in the 82nd Airborne at Fort Bragg, N.C., was one of the first paratroopers to be deployed to the Persian Gulf area last month.

Sgt. Morgan is also a veteran of the Grenada and Panama conflicts, and has served as a member of the U.S. Army Para-Demo team for five years.

His wife, Nancy Polson Morgan, a former resident of Granite City, is a representative of the Army Wives Family Support Group at Fort Bragg, N.C.

In a recent letter home to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Polson, Mrs. Morgan made a request to her former hometown family friends and local business people.

"On behalf of the support group members here at Fort Bragg and those all across the country, I ask that everyone proudly display red, white and blue in the form of flags, banners, ribbons, corsages, etc., to show your support for our brave men and women stationed in the Persian Gulf."

"I understand there have recently been troops deployed from Scott Air Force Base in Belleville as well as some men and women from the Charles Melvin Price Army post in Granite City."

"It is my hope as well as all those military families across the United States that everyone in the St. Louis Metro East area will join with us in support of our local deployed soldiers."

'Clean coal' plan hailed

U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., has praised Illinois Power Company's announcement that the utility proposes to design, build and test a state-of-the-art clean-coal high-technology system.

The system would virtually eliminate emissions from coal-fired electric power generating plants, authorities are predicting.

The firm has chosen its Baldwin Power Station units, about 50 miles southeast of St. Louis, for the project.

Illinois Power, headquartered in Decatur, has selected Babcock & Wilcox of Barberton, Ohio, as its partner in the project.

Baldwin is the utility's largest generator of electricity and is one of the largest users of Illinois coal, employing 2,200 persons at Baldwin in the mines which supply the plant.

Its three units produce 1,680,000 kilowatts of power and use about 4.5 million tons of Illinois coal each year.

The project depends on funding under the Clean Coal Technology Program run by the Department of Energy (DOE).

"The company plans to apply for funding early next year after the department opens its next competition for grants under the program."

"This project is a showcase for Illinois industry and Illinois coal," said Simon during a visit to Decatur on the day of the announcement.

"It's exactly the direction we need to go. It's also exactly what we had in mind in creating the clean-coal technology program."

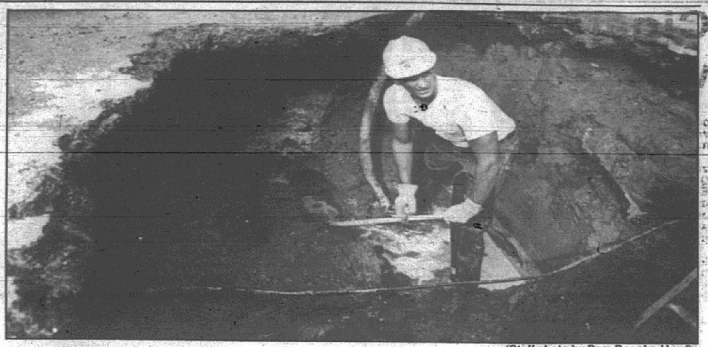

"Department of Energy participation in this project would make perfect sense for our energy policy, for our environment and for our economy."

In its statement, Illinois Power said the project, if funded, "will help meet the expected environmental requirements of the pending Clean Air Act amendments while also saving Illinois coal industry jobs and millions of dollars in costs that will otherwise be passed on to Illinois electric customers."

The firm consulted with Simon, Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Bellefonte, and Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, as it developed the plan.

Illinois Power said DOE participation in the project "as well as competitive pricing for high-sulfur coal" are essential for the companies to implement the proposed project.

If the Department of Energy accepts the application, it would pay about half of the project's estimated $150 million to $200 million cost.

EUREKA! I'VE FOUND IT: Darrell Tyler, a laborer for Illinois-American Water Co., locates one of two breaks in a water pipe at the intersection of Central Street and Hildebrand Avenue in the Cloverleaf Addition near Madison. A broken pipe collar and a missing plug were the causes of the water main breaking early Friday morning. With the exception of one yard and garage, little flooding resulted.

Most schools find they need state's temporary tax hike to be permanent

Most school districts in Illinois used money gained from the state's temporary income tax increase in attempts to balance their budgets, reduce deficits and maintain existing levels of programs, services and salaries.

This is the conclusion from a survey whose results have just been announced by the State Board of Education.

The survey of the 1989-90 school year showed that over half of the districts, about 57 percent, applied the new funding to their budget-balancing efforts.

The temporary revenue helped reduce deficits for approximately 42 percent of school districts and allowed 36 percent of them to borrow less.

Although about 38 percent reported they tried to maintain the relative level of teacher salaries, less than 24 percent of the districts said they were able to use the money to improve the relative level of teacher salaries.

If the General Assembly fails to extend the temporary income tax surcharge that was enacted last year and is set to expire in 1991, State Superintendent of Education Robert Leininger said, that could spell doom for many school systems.

"This temporary money, about $260 million both last year and this year, has kept many schools on their feet financially."

"But just when districts are about to get their balance, the tax is set to expire and leave them financially crippled," Leininger said.

"For most schools, the funding generated by this tax increase was not a bonus they could devote to expanding programs, services or facilities."

"They used this money to avoid deeper cuts in already reduced school operations."

"As important as this increased funding was, for most districts it meant survival rather than real progress in services for students," Leininger concluded.

Despite the benefit of the temporary tax revenue, 38 percent of school districts said they will still have to pursue local property tax increases.

About 11 percent of the districts reported reducing local tax levies, at least temporarily, because of the additional state funding. Only 4 percent indicated they expected to receive any of the temporary tax revenue given to counties and municipalities.

Many school districts also reported using temporary tax revenue to make one-time expenditures, including:

- Buying or updating textbooks (4 percent)
- Buying, updating or repairing computers (38 percent)
- Buying or updating computer software and courseware (31 percent)
- Library/media center materials (28 percent)

Overall, 831 or 87 percent of Illinois' school districts responded to the survey, including 84 percent of elementary districts, 80 percent of high school districts and 92 percent of community unit districts.

The issue has become involved in the November election campaigns of Jim Edgar and Neil Hartigan, nominees for governor.

Hartigan, in particular, has been speaking out against the temporary tax, focusing his attack mainly on the portion that goes to cities and counties.

Child-care classes open

The Vocational Child Care Program held at Granite City High School has some openings.

The school has a limited number of openings for pre-school classes taught as part of the home economics curriculum, a spokesman said.

High school students and pre-schoolers learn together under the direction of a certified home economics teacher.

Openings are available for 2-, 3-, and 4-year-old children in three different sessions.

One 3- and 4-year-old pre-school class is available on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 8:15 to 10 a.m.

The other session for 3- and 4-year-olds is held from 10:15 a.m. to noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The class for 2-year-olds is held on Tuesday and Thursday from 10:15 a.m. to noon.

A registration fee of $25 per semester is charged for the 3- and 4-year-old classes and a fee of $17 is charged for the 2-year-old class. The fee helps defray the cost of snacks and materials used in the program.

For more information, persons may call Jean Nelson or Barbara Coleman at 451-5808.

New outpatient therapy service

Ketteler Center, the mental health service of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, is offering new outpatient services, including individual therapy, family therapy, marital therapy, group therapy and psychological testing.

"People don't have to wait until a problem becomes extreme before asking for help," said Teresa White, PhD, director of professional services for Ketteler.

"Occasionally, we get calls from people wondering whether they should be concerned about a behavior or a situation. Maybe a neighbor or a teacher suggested they get help. Talking with a therapist can help clarify the situation. Certainly, if there is a problem it can become harder to deal with the longer it goes without attention."

Ketteler's Outpatient Service can help on stress, anxiety or depression. It can also benefit families with children experiencing academic, social or disciplinary problems; couples considering separation or divorce; single parents re-adjusting after divorce; and adults experiencing job performance problems or other difficulties.

"Therapy can be useful for people who want to learn more about themselves and how they cope with the stresses life presents to all of us," White said.

"They may have gone through a life-cycle change, such as recently being married, the birth of a new baby, or the last child going off to school. They managed through the change, but need a little help getting back on track. Possibly they expected to feel relieved saying goodbye to the last little one, but instead feel apprehensive and mildly depressed."

Therapists in the new outpatient program are all SEMC associates, with a combined 39 years of experience in providing mental health services. All are trained at the master's or doctoral level in psychology, social work, counseling and marriage/family studies.

"Four therapists provide outpatient services, and each has his or her own specialty area."

White said. "A client can request one, or if the potential client has no preference, I will talk with them briefly to assess their situation. Then I'll match them up with the therapist who will best meet their needs."

The program has been designed to meet Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Healthcare Organization standards for high-quality care.

"An added benefit of the program is our relationship with the larger Mental-Health Services and the medical center," White said.

"Although many cases can be treated with outpatient therapy, if a medical referral seems prudent, we could suggest a local specialist. Or, if the client might benefit from medication and has not previously seen a psychiatrist, we would refer him or her to one on our staff."

"Should hospitalization become necessary, we have the backup of our four inpatient units. This ties into our philosophy of developing a full continuum of services. The group therapy program hopes to explore a variety of topics."

"We'd like to offer a training program to help parents who want to learn more effective ways to manage their children's behavior," White said. "One of our therapists would also like to develop a men's issue program dealing with concerns men face."

The services will be provided on a fee-for-service arrangement. Therapists will accept payment at the time of service.

"At this point, we provide clients with all the necessary information they need to file for reimbursement, with their insurance company. We will assist families in assessing whether, or not their particular plan will cover our services," White said.

These services will also be available to patients who have stayed on one of the inpatient units, to provide aftercare support and furthering their progress.

Day and early evening appointments are available. The numbers are 798-3608 or 798-3604.

TOM BASTIAN, RN, utilizes the programming capabilities of one of SEMC's Omni-Flow medication infusion systems. The system allows simultaneous or individual medication administration through a central IV line.

UNIQUE FEATURES of the Omni-Flow IV (intravenous) system are demonstrated by Terry Stafford (left) and Debbie Hamilton. Both are registered nurses assigned to the Critical Care Unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

New monitors aid nurses in Critical Care Unit at SEMC

That's not a portable "ugly" wheeling around St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Critical Care Unit, although a brochure compares its programming to a 24-hour automatic bank teller. And it really isn't a computer on wheels, either, even though it does store information and also performs functions through programming.

What is it?

It's Robe Nurse.

That's what the medical center's Critical Care nurses are calling the seven new medication infusion systems that arrived last month.

"The new Omni-Flow 4000s are much more advanced than the Rateminder IV monitors we used to have," said Kathy Gauzen, Critical Care Unit supervisor.

"In critical care, timing is everything.

"If you have one patient who needs medical attention immediately, you can't always pause from that patient to administer an intravenous 'piggy back' medication to another patient," Gauzen said.

"The new system eliminates that problem because the medication is ready and waiting."

"The system administers the medication automatically according to the nurses' programming."

The Omni-Flow 4000s have four-channel capacity for a 24-hour period.

Up to four different medications can be given simultaneously and/or intermittently with just one direct line into the patient's access site.

This means easier patient transport, and less clutter around the bedside.

Also, one of the machines can accomplish the work of four Rateminders.

"The Omni-Flows simplify organization and assure that administration of medication is on time, even without the nurse in the room," said Tom Bastian, a registered nurse on the Critical Care Unit.

The Omni-Flows currently are being used only at the CCU. Gauzen, supervisor of the unit, said, "We're excited about using this system."

"We believe that it will enhance the quality of patient care and allow the nurses to make better use of their time in patient care."

St. Elizabeth Medical Center is located in Granite City in the 2100 block between Madison and Washington avenues.

Orientation for Optifast Sept. 26

A free Optifast orientation session is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 26, in the gymnasium of the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St.

A spokesman said, "Obesity slows you down and keeps you from enjoying a lot of fun. It also shortens your life."

"With the help of the medical, nutritional and behavioral modification professionals in the Optifast program, part of the Obesity Treatment Clinic at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, you can start getting ready to enjoy life more fully."

"Optifast is a medically supervised treatment approach for persons who are more than 50 pounds or at least 30 percent over ideal body weight. The program combines the supervision with a modified fast, behavioral changes, nutrition education group sessions and exercise. It is considered safe and effective. For more information, the phone number is 798-3939."

"Environmental and Moisture Control in the Home" will be taught by the Homemakers Extension Association at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 27 for the Isabel Bevier Unit at the home of Marie Yevin, 2917 Grand.

Dezans' 50th attracts 300

Mr. and Mrs. John Dezan of Madison were honored at a surprise 50th wedding anniversary attended by more than 300 relatives and friends Aug. 25 at the Croatian Home on Madison.

The dinner and dance was hosted by the honorees' children and their spouses: Kathy and Art Ritz of Granite City; John and Nancy Dezan of Herndon, Va.; Tony and Annette Dezan of St. Louis; Steven and Lora Dezan of Granite City; and their grandchildren, Leonard, Ben and Ann Ritz, and Michelle, James, Matt, Renee, Nichole, Amanda, Bobby and Steve Dezan.

Dezan and the former Nellie Pakozy were married at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Madison on Aug. 24, 1940.

Dezan formerly owned and operated John's Drive-In in Venice for many years.

The couple renewed their marriage vows on Aug. 26 at St. Mary's Church, with the Rev. James Keefner officiating.

Drug, alcohol benefit banquet set

A banquet in behalf of Project Clean Up Drugs and Alcohol will be held on Saturday, Oct. 13 at 6:30 p.m. at the Venice Recreation Center, 305 Broadway.

Project Clean Up is a community outreach organization that ministers to drug and alcohol dependent people. The organization has sponsored several drug and alcohol educational seminars in Madison and St. Clair Counties.

The banquet will feature several singing groups.

The Rev. Jerome Jackson, pastor of Southern Mission Missionary Baptist Church and moderator of the New Salem District Association will be the feature speaker. Master of ceremony will be Deacon Ernest Greenlee.

Tickets for the banquet cost $9. For more information call Rev. John H. Williams at 452-5124. Tickets can be purchased at the door on the night of the banquet.

Checks should be made payable to: Project Clean Up Drugs and Alcohol, 619 Washington St., Venice, Ill., 62990.

Wirth-Dent

Karen Ann Wirth and Joe Dent, both of Belleville, recently announced their engagement. She is the daughter of Roy and Joyce Wirth of Prairie du Rocher. He is the son of Sharon Dent of Madison.

The bride-elect is a 1985 graduate of Red Bud High School and a 1989 graduate of Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville with a major in Elementary education. She works for Columbia Unit 4 School as a fifth-grade teacher.

Her fiancé is a 1985 graduate of Edwardsville High School and a senior at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville with a major in computer science. He works for Modern Technologies of O'Fallon as an analyst.

An Aug. 1991 wedding is planned at Prairie du Rocher.

McCosky-Batson

Tina Marie McCosky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCosky of Troy, Ill., formerly of Venice, and David Glenn Batson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Derrill Batson of Cahokia, have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

McCosky is a 1986 graduate of Marquette High School in Alton and is attending Belleville Area College. She is employed by Welsch, Flatness and Lutz Inc. of St. Louis as an accounting clerk.

Batson is a 1985 graduate of Cahokia High School and is attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He is employed by Swing City Music in Collinsville as a salesman.

The couple is planning an April wedding at St. Jerome's Church in Troy.

Huff

Raymond E. Huff, 62, of Holiday Shores, near Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City, died at 8:58 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1990, in the emergency room at Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

He was born April 20, 1928, and had been a resident of Granite City most of his life. He was employed by Triangle Metallurgical in Granite City and had retired in 1980 from Granite City Steel, where he was employed as a roller in the Hot Strip for 33 years.

Mr. Huff was a member of Elks Lodge 1063 here. A U.S. Army veteran, he was of the Catholic faith.

Surviving are five daughters, Justina O'Gunn of St. Louis, Ramona Bohrer of Leisure City, Fla., LaRay Caldwell of Homestead, Fla., Rhonda Leeper of Florissant and Kelly Huff at home; one son, Michael Huff of San Francisco; his mother, Mrs. Mary Huff of Granite City; two sisters, Anita Winters and Margo Evans, both of Granite City; and five grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his father, Raymond J. Huff.

Visitation will be from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday at Davis Funeral Home, 21st Street and Cleveland Blvd. A funeral Mass will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, 2300 Ponton Road, with the Rev. Francis Tebanunga officiating. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery near Edwardsville.

Memorials may be given to Elks Lodge 1063 of Granite City.

Favie

Kirby J. Favie, 82, of Granite City was pronounced dead at his home by Deputy Coroner Ed Werner at 3:50 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1990. Mr. Favie had been ill for 11 months.

Born Nov. 9, 1907, in Prairie County, Mo., he had resided most of his life in Granite City. Mr. Favie worked for 48 years as a chairman in the North Plant at Granite City Steel. He was a member of Second Baptist Church.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Larry (Gail) Doty of Eldon, Mo.; one brother, John Favie of Granite City; one sister, Mrs. Ollie Sigite of Granite City; one granddaughter, Mrs. Matt (Terri) Warner of Franklin Park, Ill.; and three great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Retta (Snelling) Favie, who died in 1967.

Also preceding him in death were two sons and two daughters. Barbara Luptowski and Maureen and Colleen, all of California, and five grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by her parents, Joe and Georgia Schwehr.

Her remains were cremated. A memorial service was held in Pacific Grove.

Brewster

Harry Brewster, 87, of Edwardsville died at 4:20 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 18, 1990, at Eden Village Care Center, where he had resided since 1980.

He was born July 11, 1903, and was a sheet metal worker for local unions.

His wife, Velva L. (Henley) Brewster, died May 5, 1983.

There was no visitation. Graveside services will be held today at 1:30 p.m. at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville. Arrangements were by Irwin Chapel of Granite City.

down, the car sank immediately, taking both men with it into 40 to 60 feet of water, because they were wearing seatbelts.

Kramer released his seatbelt and swam to the surface, but McGowan had some trouble with it, and Kramer said he was about to die for McGowan when he surfaced.

"A little spooky, a little exciting" and "pretty scary" was how Kramer described the experience.

"The thing I was scared most about was Tommy," Kramer said. "He was down there for a while."

Neither man was injured.

McGowan, who could not be reached for comment, went back to the site Wednesday morning with a scuba diver, said his father.

Kramer said a towing service had told McGowan he might not be able to get his car back, because the loose shale on the cliff could make it dangerous for the car to try and drag the car out.

The quarry is somewhat notorious because a number of people have drowned there over the years, and stolen cars have been dumped in it, police said.

• Aqua site

Sonnenchein, president and executive director of the Aquacenter, said, "The board determined that due to the necessary funding characteristics, the location of the facility should be near I-255 and the Collinsville hotel district. This would enable access to the tourist corridor in southwestern Illinois."

He was preceded in death by his wife, Retta (Snelling) Favie, who died in 1967.

Also preceding him in death were two sons and two daughters. Barbara Luptowski and Maureen and Colleen, all of California, and five grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by her parents, Joe and Georgia Schwehr.

Her remains were cremated. A memorial service was held in Pacific Grove.

deadbolt lock and "replacing a smoke alarm it's my fault is gone."

"The rent ($270 a month without utilities) is reasonable, the neighbors are nice and I'm real happy here," Biggs said.

Biggs said there are very few places that will rent to someone who needs a roof over their head, she had to have the Harsters carry the utilities in their name because she wasn't eligible.

Biggs said she doesn't work, but does some babysitting. She said her boyfriend, who doesn't live there, helps her out with the rent.

"I really like it here; I'm really happy," she said.

Partney said she doesn't want to put people like Biggs out on the street. But, he said, "What you've got to do, and it's just contract and pay for the service themselves.

Leaves

Kramer, superintendent of MacWarfield told the aldermen one leaf vacuum probably couldn't handle all the leaves in the city, but if purchased "it would be out on the street every day the weather allows."

He also said that in some areas of the city the amount of leaves is small enough that it could probably be handled by a street sweeper.

Warfield said he would prefer a new street sweeper to a leaf vacuum, but would work with what he got. He said a new my opinion and you know what they say about opinions, but what you've got to do is protect the interest of some people even when they don't want their interest protected."

A building like this one, Partney said, has a high turnover of tenants. In order to make money, he said, a landlord has to keep it filled and "find someone who needs a roof over their head, has children, bad credit, and takes advantage of them."

Karen Harster said, "It ain't as easy being a landlord as everybody seems to think."

She said her tenants in the Missouri Avenue building are good tenants who keep the place clean. She said there is not a high turnover.

If the building is full of kids, she said, it's because they are the neighbors' kids or kids being babysat there.

sweeper couldn't be purchased for $19,000, but one could be leased for about that amount.

Whitaker argued that the leaf vacuum, in conjunction with street sweeping and drop-off dumpsters manned by the street department, could handle the leaves.

In response to 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney's complaint that the city had no alternative plan to burning, Whitaker said "we did have a plan" with the leaf vacuum and that the aldermen all agreed on it until "they started getting calls and couldn't take the heat."

Landfill hearing consultant hired

By John Millazzo

Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Despite one member's efforts to the contrary, the Madison County Board on Wednesday approved the hiring of Rhuatell and Associates to conduct a landfill and reclamation study on a proposed landfill and reclamation business near Granite City.

The vote on the hiring was 26-1.

The county's Regional Pollution Control Board will convene a state-mandated hearing Sept. 26 to consider the application of Environmental Control Systems of Springfield for a combined landfill and reclamation facility on 210 acres near the southern tip of Horseshoe Lake.

The hearing is needed to determine if the panel will recommend approval of the new landfill.

Richard Worthen, chairman of the county's Environmental Control Committee, supported Patrick Engineering of Springfield over Rhuatell when the Regional Pollution Control Board met Sept. 6 to discuss the issue.

The pollution control panel is charged with carrying out siting hearings and is comprised of both the Environmental Control and Land Use committees.

The panel, after a tie vote Sept. 6 on a Worthen motion to retain Patrick, had voted 5-3 to retain Rhuatell.

Rhuatell will be paid up to $12,000 to make sure the project meets state and federal environmental safety standards.

Panel members voting for Rhuatell cited his lower rate structure and disappointment that Patrick sent a planner instead of an engineer to make a presentation.

On Wednesday, before the county board's vote to retain Rhuatell, Worthen reiterated concerns that representatives for the company aren't familiar with the landfill siting process or with "basic" federal rules and regulations "pertaining to landfill siting and operation."

By contrast, Worthen said,

"I don't know Mr. Partney or what he thinks, but I wish he would call and discuss it with me," she said.

Partney said he is also a landlord. But, he said, he wouldn't rent an apartment to Biggs. "I must be assured of payment in order to make my payments," he said. "I'm not a social agency to take care of these people."

People in the 2000 block of Missouri Avenue, Partney said, own their houses and having a building like this one is "first their burden to carry."

"This is not my personal ax to grind. I wouldn't know (the Harsters) if I passed the end of the street. My ax is the condition of the property and its effect on the neighborhood."

Besides, it's a dangerous situation. That building is full of kids and if just one kid gets killed it's just not worth it."

Whitaker, 2nd Ward Alderman Jim Miller and 3rd Ward Alderman Andy Timko voted against placing the ordinance on first reading. Those three, along with 7th Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen, voted against placing the ordinance on final passage.

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk was absent.

The ordinance includes an amendment proposed by 1st Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish to extend the hours and days leaf burning is allowed. The originally proposed ordinance limited burning to Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m.

Patrick has successfully completed four contracts representing counties in various parts of the state in similar hearings.

Worthen said, Rhuatell appears to have had less experience in landfill matters over the last 10 years, and that the firm "is like hiring a dentist to have your gall bladder removed."

As a substitute motion, Worthen asked that the board retain both firms.

In response to questions and criticism by Worthen, Herschel Beane, R-Godfrey, said Worthen "causes me a lot of grief, both on the board and in life," and accused Worthen of improperly conferring with Patrick to give that firm an inside track for the work.

Despite assurances from special state attorney Lewis Marshall, who will represent the county in the hearing, the money for county consultants comes out of a $75,000 application fee put up by the proposed developer.

Worthen's motion to hire both firms was voted down 20-6.

Baptist nurses discuss their health-care roles

Maxine Green covers the Granite City and Nameoki Township area for the Press-Record/Journal. Contact 931-6256.

Maxine Green

The Baptist Nursing Fellowship of the Madison County Baptist Association recently heard featured speaker Joyce Duncan of Poplar Bluff, Mo., a former president of the National Baptist Nurses Fellowship. The group met at Third Baptist Church in Granite City. Duncan shared information about meetings and conventions relating to the health care ministry.

Newly elected officers for the group are: Nina George, president; Sandy McMasters, vice president; Brenda Cole and Sue Teitloff, secretaries; Donna Fischer and Cindy Grandridge, program committee; Phyllis Nishwitz, membership committee; and Faith Keller, service and missionary committee.

Also attending: Jean Corzine, Georgia Providence, Cindy Dorch, Vicki Perry, Nancy Wilkins, and Naomi Snider of Imperial, Mo., a sister of Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Pat) Weathers have returned from a successful fishing trip to Eno, Canada. Accompanying them were Bill's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lester (Lois) Throop of Freeburg, Ill. On the return trip, they traveled through Itaska, Minn., and the Dakotas, visiting Deadwood, Mount Rushmore, Crazy Horse Monument in the Black Hills and Badlands.

Ruby Shearer, who has been a patient in Memorial Hospital in Bowling Green, Ky., was visited by her sister-in-law, Lucille Martin, and a niece, Maxine Green, on Sunday. With them was a niece, Gladys Brooks of Morgantown, Ky.

Amanda Langston spent the weekend in Stanton, Mo., visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr.

and Mrs. Joe (Carol) Masters, and daughters, Torrie and Denise.

While there, they joined 40 other relatives and friends for fishing and a fish dinner. On Sunday, they all attended the Stanton Baptist Church and Meramec Caverns.

Joi McNeish celebrated her eighth birthday on Sept. 2 at the family home on Edwards Street. McNeish is the daughter of Connie McNeish of Granite City and Joe McNeish of Collinsville. Attending the celebration were: grandparents, Bud and Sharon Jackson and Teiko McNeish; Caci Dowell; Zachary Bitter; Doris and Pat McNeish; Bob Fernandez and son, Jeremy; Carolyn Votaw; and Sherry Burris. Later that evening, a slumber party was held for the honoree with Caci Dowell, Jeanna Janek, Emily Vance and Amanda Johnson attending.

A baby shower was held on Sept. 8 at Nameoki United Methodist Church for Josiah David Preuss, who was born June 16 in Oleatha, Kan. Parents of the infant are George and Linda Preuss, a former resident of Granite City.

Beta Sigma Phi gathers for social outing

Members of the Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi gathered in late August for a social outing in St. Louis and to kick-off their 1990-91 club year. The day's activities started with a mid-morning tour of Grant's Farm, followed by lunch at nearby Bevo Mill with dessert enjoyed at the 77-year-old Crown Candy Kitchen also in St. Louis.

During the preceding summer months, Chapter President Alice Konieczny entertained the elected officers and appointed committee chairmen in her Collinsville home during June. Betty Ebling, a former longtime member now living in Alamo, Texas, was a special guest at the combined luncheon and planning session. Then during the month of July, Delores Dorch of the Social Committee arranged for members to motor to Ste. Genevieve, Mo., where they toured the early French quarter of that river community. A restored Victorian home was the site of afternoon refreshments served the group before returning to Granite City.

At the late August kick-off, Jean Forrest distributed copies of the 1990-91 yearbook which she had compiled. At their request, copies are also being mailed to Mrs. Ebling and these current and past members who maintain their close interest in the chapter but are unable currently to participate in all activities: Lucille Voyles of Edwardsville, Martha Jean Dyer of Carbondale and Jane Stevens of upstate Avon.

In addition to President Konieczny and Corresponding Secretary Forrest, other officers are: Ruth Stoyanoff, vice president; Arlene Haldeman, recording secretary; Bea Brackett, treasurer; and Juanita Calve, extension officer.

Other members not previously mentioned are: Joyce Alexander, Dolores Byrnes, Lora Mae Lombardi, Evelyn Tolliver and Pat Tsigalaroff.

Garden Study blossoms into fall session

The September meeting of the Garden Study Club was held at the home of Mary Kelio in Granite City. Eleven members and three guests: Nancy Moore, Ruth Jensen and Dawn Hornberger, enjoyed refreshments prepared by the hostess.

The Collect was recited in unison, and the roll call was answered by members naming birds they are seeing in their yards this time of year.

Comment was made about the many front yards in Granite City decorated with flowers this year and how they improve the appearance of the city. Reports were also given on the condition and appearance of the plantings made by members around the town. Jean Holder, the Main Fire Station; Catherine Kostoff, the Eagles on Madison Avenue; the Branch Library and OATH, Inc.; Mary Stomum, the Pontoon Beach Senior Citizen Center; Clara Winter, The Old Six Mile Historical Society's Museum herb garden; Shirley Stallings.

Donations were made to Ruth Jensen and to the Garden Clubs of Illinois Inc., which encompasses the following: Illinois Headquarters Fund, Historic Trails and Preservation, World Gardening, Scholarship, Lincoln Memorial Garden Restoration Endowment Fund, Conservation and Environmental Education Scholarships, Roadside Operation Wildflower, Garden Therapy, and Blue Star Memorial Markers. Mary Stomum's name was placed in the Illinois Book of Honor and Mrs. Marie Eads' name was placed in the Illinois Book of Remembrance.

Three antique Mexican feather pictures and two dried flower pictures were passed around for viewing by the members. An exhibit of flowers and herbs was brought by Clara Winter which included Pink, Mamarda, Autumn Clematis, Cone flowers, Blue Salvia, and Cloud Nine Cushion Mums. Oregano and Rosemary completed the display.

The program for this meeting was presented by Ruth Jensen of the Auburn Society. It was a slide show depicting scenes from the 740 million acres of public lands in America including Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Ruth Polson read a prayer poem from a book called "Garden Prayers" published by the National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc., of St. Louis.

Other members present were Christine Hornberger, Marie Oetkin, Irene Doroghazi and Bonnie Rutkowski.

The next meeting will be at the Doroghazi home.

Knights' Council initiates seven

The First Degree Team of Knights of Columbus Council 1098 conducted initiation ceremonies for seven new members at its regular meeting on Sept. 11. These inducted into Council 1098 were:

Mike Bronnbauer, Robert Pare, Charles Creamer, Theodore Mushill, John Mink, Kevin Nichols and Dan Folkerts.

Also present were Elmer Bernhardt, district deputy, and Jim Mickels, district membership chairman.

Thirty seven members viewed the initiation. Refreshments were served after the ceremonies.

HEA meets its new officers

The September meeting of the Granite City Unit of Homemakers Extension was presided over by the new officers.

The meeting was opened by the new President Florence Stokes. Vincine Zerlan read the Homemaker Aim and all members joined in the pledge to the flag. Mary Radick gave the blessing and lunch was served by the hostesses Irma Taylor, Winnie Kelly and Mary Thebeau. Extension Advisor Catherine Mauck of the Edwardsville office spoke skills for living alone. She was accompanied by Mary Lou Garbe.

Roll call was taken by the secretary Betty Goldsch and there were 22 present and one guest, Marge King.

Stokes announced the October meeting will be a potluck. The hostesses will be Adele Wasylyk, Helen Urban and Martha McIlvay.

Second Vice President Mary Evalyne Yenchu stressed the fact that all dues should be paid before the end of September.

A motion was made and accepted that the unit donate $20 to Pennies for Friendship.

The attendance prize was won by Ann Miller.

The president announced that international day will be in late October. Kiddie Bazaar will be Dec. 13.

The international report was made by Sophie Thomas. Elizabeth Schmidt gave the 4-H report.

It was announced that Northwest District annual Craft Fair will be held Wednesday, Oct. 10 at Rox-Arena, Route 111 at Tenneyson. Hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be craft demonstrations, door prizes and great food. A one year membership will be given by the district.

Stokes announced that on each meeting day the door will be opened at 10 a.m. for crafts or just fellowship.

The new amendments to the bylaws were read and approved. It was announced that the tentative date for the Christmas Party will be Dec. 4. Chairmen for this event are Adele Wasylyk and Mary Thebeau.

First Vice President Barbara Rogers announced that the January lesson will be given by Nina Dittman and Mary Thebeau. The hostesses will be Mary Radick, Ann Konopka and Anna Michels.

Eta Chapter holds meeting

Eta Chapter of Phi Tau Omega Sorority held its monthly business meeting Sept. 5 at the home of the chapter President Martha Ruth Thomas. Reports and correspondence from national officers were read, including information that a new chapter of the sorority will be installed in Des Moines, Iowa, in November. Also discussed were future philanthropic and fund-raising projects for the chapter, including the sale of pecans prior to Christmas.

Names of prospective members were submitted, and plans for the annual rush season were discussed.

The president announced that the Christmas party is scheduled for Dec. 27. Special prizes were awarded to Kathy Keck and Mary Evalyne Yenchu. Also attending were: Georgiana Van Buskirk, Mary Lou Richeson, Eunice Hatcher, Debbie Geggus, Jan Haug, Jan Greathouse and Mary Hassler.

Steel Women begin new year

The Granite City Steel Women's Association held their first meeting for the 1990-91 year on Sept. 11 at Wade's Place.

A business meeting was held after the barbecue buffet was served, presided by President Celeste Dotson. New business included approving a motion to make a contribution to the local DARE program and preparing for a walk-a-thon in October.

Attendance prizes were awarded and bingo was played. Committee planners for the meeting were June Nikonovich, Tina Stickler and Ruby Hendricks.

The next meeting will be a Halloween party at Ravanelli's Restaurant on Oct. 9.

Birthday from G.I. to bonsai

Kathy Dohal covers the Madison-Venice scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 877-1096.

"Happy Seventh Birthday" greeted guests who attended a party held for Geoffrey Lux at his home recently. A "G.I. Joe" theme was used in the decorations and for the birthday cake.

A buffet dinner was served to Alexis and Geoff Lux; Michael Lux; Goldie Rozycke; Vic and Martha Mance; Roland and Frances Lux; Val and Helen Kelih; June and Gerald Lux; Jerry and Carole Lux; Elise Lux; and Elene Lux.

The honoree attended the Japanese festival at the St. Louis Botanical (Shaw's) Garden. There he saw a bonsai display and the newly remodeled Climatron. A kids' party was held at Polish Hall in observance of Geoffrey's birthday.

Jessica Bathon celebrated her ninth birthday with a skating party at Funtown USA Sept. 9.

The party was hosted by her parents, Fred and Terry Bathon. Also attending were: Jennifer Noeth, Laura Kamalinski, Linda Dohal, Kasey Baum, Danielle Stern, Cindy Bisto, Jacob Bathon and Kristin Sesser.

Bathon is a third-grade student at St. Elizabeth School.

Regina Foryst was elected director of District 6 of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America at the National 55th Quadrennial Convention in Rosemont, Ill., on Aug. 4. She succeeded her husband, Edward, in the office.

The inauguration took place Sept. 16. The oath of office was given during a Mass at St. Stanislaus Kostka Parish in Chicago.

Stephanie Dohal celebrated her second birthday with a family luncheon Sept. 15.

Attending were her parents, Steve and Mary L. Dohal; great-grandparents, Frank and Katherine Orris Sr. and Mary Domanski; grandparents, Ruth and Joe Barrington and Ed and Kathy Dohal; Jo Ann Lawrence; Vince Dohal and Courtney; Paul Barrington; Lisa Dohal; Jerry Bush; Betsy Barrington; Brian Dohal; Linda Dohal; Frank and Barbara Orris Jr.; and Frank and Patty Orris, with Stacy and Benjamin.

St. Mary's Activity Committee held a meeting on Aug. 29. The Rev. Jim Keefner opened the meeting with a prayer. Lucille Mossa read the minutes.

A pancake breakfast will be held Oct. 14.

Goldie Rozycke reported on bands hired for the annual parish picnic to be held June 14-16. They include: the Polka Connection Band, Friday and Sunday; and the Horizons, Saturday.

The annual Snowman's Ball has been set for Dec. 8, and the second Spring Dance is set for April 13. The Polka Connection will play 8 p.m. to midnight.

Officers elected were: Norman Morier, president; Delores Brunski, vice president; Kathy Culbert, publicity director; Carol Robertson, recording secretary; Goldie Rozycke, treasurer; and Sister Bernadette, chaplain.

Wilson Park has many attractions, including a footpath around the park that attracts scores of walkers each day.

It has become a place for the young, old and in between to see and be seen. Go to the park at almost any time and you will see people walking or sometimes jogging. What jogging was in the '70s, walking is now to the '90s.

Most people prefer to walk rather than jog because it is easier for them, there is less chance of injury, and they need less physical endurance.

The walker gains considerable exercise, with no damaging effects on the lower back, knees or the arches of the feet.

If you walk all the way around Wilson Park you will have traveled a mile and a quarter. If you are just starting out, that will be plenty.

Don't overwork tired muscles and increase your chance of injury, authorities advise. Start slow and walk every other day in the beginning. Gradually increase your distance until you have achieved your goal. Talk to your physician before starting any exercise program, especially if you have any health problem.

Almost all the walkers feel that the park area is a safe place, even at night, although the buddy system is emphasized.

The walkers like walking in the park better than in their respective neighborhoods. "I have a tendency to stroll if I walk around my neighborhood. I look at houses and stuff and I slow down," Kathy Keck said. "Here, I keep up my pace better because there are less distractions, the path is more convenient and there are lots of people out here for the same reason I am."

People walking around the park are having fun while getting exercise at the same time. And once you start, it is hard to quit.

Most walkers agree they have noticed a big difference since the time they first started. "I have a heart condition and this is the only form of exercise I can do," said Carolyn Thomason. "I started June 1 because my doctor said it would be good for me. I don't get short of breath like I used to and I just feel better. I used to walk a mile a day in my neighborhood but I like coming here better."

An improvement that the park walkers, and joggers as well, would like to see is the paving of the track area around the park. In the form of a check, may be made out to the Granite City Park District Fitness Trail Fund and mailed to Post Office Box 1532, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Another concern is the lighting, or lack of it, along the north side of the park by Fehling Road. Many would like to see street lights there. "In the winter, when I walk with my daughter, we go faster on this side," Shirley Tretter said. "It's a little scary."

In general, the walkers feel lucky to be able to have a park as nice and as well taken care of as Wilson. They like the fact that they are free to use it at any time and are proud that Granite City has such a pleasant walking area.

HEARTY walker Carolyn Thomason enjoys her morning circling Wilson Park.

Sheets help local Hospice

Lucille Martin covers the Pontoon Beach scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-0731.

Members of the Christian Homemakers of the Pontoon Beach Church of Christ held their monthly meeting last week. Vivian Ellis gave the devotional.

Attending were Sherry Graff, Ernestine Hahn, Vivian Ellis, Wilma Mendenhall, Mary Dudley, Corrine Kreher and Doris Bush.

The Pontoon Baptist Women heard Frances Brake gave a devotional using the scripture from Luke 8:22-25.

The mission study was on "The Range of Strangers."

The women are collecting used sheets for Hospice. These sheets will be made into hospital gowns for cancer patients. If anyone would like to make a donation or more information on this project, they should call 931-1316 or 797-2187.

A donation of $20 was made to the Baptist Children's Home.

Members attending the meeting were: Agnes Lindsay, Sylvia Massman, Frances Brake, Maggie Lauffman, Barbara Rigby, Leta Kollenbrun and Louise Haynes, the WMU director.

Mr. and Mrs. George (Louise) Haynes attended Parents' Day on Saturday at Indiana State University in Terre Haute, Ind., where their son, George Jr., is a senior. While there, they saw the football game between ISU and Southwestern Mo.

The Haynes also visited their son, David, who had surgery in Danville, Ky., and his daughters, Amanda and Alice, who live in Mooresville, Ind.

The annual Martin family reunion was held at the city park in Morgantown, Ky., with 55 in attendance.

Attending from this area were: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph (Janet) Bartlesman and daughter, Kristy; Mr. and Mrs. Joe (Marlee) Verdu from Belleville; Mrs. Thomas Martin; and Mrs. Roy Green.

Prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Verdu for being married the longest; Buel and Kim Martin, formerly of Granite City, for traveling the longest distance, from Van Buren, Ark.; and Ivan Martin for being the oldest Martin attending.

Several other prizes were awarded and plans were made for next year's reunion.

Gladys Phelps has returned to her home after spending a few days in Marietta, Ga., where she visited with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos (Sheila) Morse.

Evelyn Parine of Marion accompanied Phelps home.

After spending two days here, she continued on to California to visit her ill mother.

Other guests at the Phelps' home were her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Art (Fadeline) Fry; Cates of Denham, Mo.; (Mrs. Cates is a former resident of Madison);

Mr. and Mrs. Cates' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Waterloo; and Lillian Schneider of Jackson, Mo.

Honest Abe once visited our county, but I'm too young to remember it

What is there to say on my 45th anniversary (this week) as a member of the Granite City newspaper staff?

I wrote a year ago about rough-and-tumble decades in our past and noted that those times were followed by progressive developments and the emergence of a bigger, better area.

After a sharp downturn in population and jobs in recent years, a turn-around is being achieved.

Precisely how much momentum the Press-Record, the Journal and the Press-Record/Journal were able to provide for the attainment of local progress can't be measured, but we'd like to think we helped.

NEWSMAKERS visiting here over the years have included Presidents Harry Truman, John F. Kennedy and Jimmy Carter, an indication of Madison County's Democratic tendencies. (Abraham Lincoln spoke in this county, too, but that was in 1858, a bit before my time.)

While employed as a reporter and editor, I have had the opportunity to work with the Chamber of Commerce, United Way, Red Cross, PTA, Boy Scouts, Madison and Granite City Rotary, Salvation Army, Junior Achievement and several college, hospital and school projects.

I also served as an Army sergeant, got married and became a father — in that order.

ON A WALL (not the Post Office) in Carbondale, my picture is displayed. I am one of the Journalism Hall of Fame southern-Illinois "master editors," all of whom believe democracy requires an informed electorate to function well.

At thousands of meetings, I and other Granite Citians have heard and reported the debates and the decisions.

We've written a lot of "instant history," aware that if the lessons of history are ignored, "solved" problems recur.

MANY SOLID CITIZENS come to mind, including John Marshall, a Granite City Steel chairman who fought for a local habor as part of the construction of the eight-mile-long Chain of Rocks Canal. The harbor was created in 1953 and its wharf was dedicated in 1955.

My church, St. John, on Nameoki Road, dates back all the way to June 28, 1862, so it's obvious that a lot happened here before there was a newspaper.

Other than Indians, the first residents arrived in the spring of 1802; our news files only go back to the spring of 1903, or 101 years later.

IMPORTANT DATES in local history since 1802 have included the formation of Madison County in 1812, six years before Illinois became a state. A local river ferry began operating in 1815. Six Mile Prairie, (six miles east of the Mississippi) was settled in 1817. A Methodist church was started here in 1830. Railroad service reached this community in 1856, and a school was built in 1858. Venice was incorporated in 1873.

The Merchants Bridge, carrying railroad trains across the river, linked Venice to north St. Louis in 1891, the year Madison was incorporated.

THE NIEDERHINGHAUSES in 1892 bought local land to build factories and homes. The Coterie ladies' club was begun in 1895.

Granite City became a city in 1896, the same year a hospital was opened in the area that includes Venice, Madison, Granite City, Pontoon Beach (incorporated in 1933) and the unincorporated Mitchell area.

The McKinley Bridge, carrying automobiles as well as trains, opened in 1910.

THE ARMY DEPOT (now the Charles Melvin Price Support Center) was built in 1942 and continued as a major base long after it had assembled and shipped vital supplies during World War II.

Local war plants thrived and then were converted to peacetime uses.

Two war-memorial recreation centers were completed in Madison in 1948. The municipalities of Granite City and Nameoki merged in 1949.

Urban and rural schools here were combined in 1950.

A.O. SMITH CORP., built an auto parts plant in 1954. Efforts to rid this area of mob-run gambling and vice began to succeed in the post-war years. Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville opened its main campus in 1963.

Public and religious schools were built as educators tried to keep up with the baby boom and a long-lasting building boom.

Quad City voters approved a variety of construction bond issues. A roofed ice skating rink was built in 1967 after voters agreed by a 4-1 margin.

SEVERAL INDUSTRIES closed, but two of them, A.O. Smith and American Steel Foundries, reopened in the 1980s.

New industrial parks were created in the eastern area of Madison along Illinois 2 in the northern part of Granite City; Pontoon Beach expanded rapidly to the east and south.

Voters in 1989 approved, 3-1, massive renovation of the Metro East Sanitary District's flood protection system.

ALL-AMERICA CITY honors were bestowed in 1959 on Granite City because of its effective citizen action — people cared enough to involve themselves in issues and remedies.

The quality and quantity of this kind of community dialogue and participation have done much to enhance life for those who reside, work, shop and play here. Happily, this spirit is still alive and well in the 1990s.

It's been a mighty busy whirl. Where did those 45 years go?

Venice chief must open up

Whether he is destined to retire or not, Venice Police Chief Birli Reed owes the city a full explanation of his intentions.

On Sunday we told you that Reed was discounting rumors circulating in town that he was preparing to retire from the force. In fact, he told us "it was none of our business" what he was planning to do.

But, considering that he has gotten a second full-time job, and still remains police chief, we feel it is our business. His governmental employment is paid for by taxpayers, and we try to represent their interests.

Another aspect to this: In a town rife with drug problems, how could a municipal government ever feel comfortable knowing that it doesn't have access to a police chief 24 hours a day? Reed's second job is in security with Granite City Steel on a rotating shift basis. That means that at least 40 hours a week he is unavailable for police work. Reed has been chief since April of this year. He's had the second job since May.

Venice residents should not feel comfortable knowing the department's second string is handling a major crime because the police chief is at work somewhere else.

Reed says a lot of people work two jobs, and he's right. It's impossible to operate a household budget on some salaries. But that doesn't stop Reed's continuing responsibility to Venice police work.

Venice has been victimized many times in the past by policemen who leave for other parts because of the low salary structure. Perhaps it's time the council rethink its pay schedule to place a little more emphasis on law enforcement.

Clean coal would be great

Coal that causes air pollution ... nuclear power that poses hazards ... electrical power that climb too fast. All three of these negatives could be dealt a blow if Illinois Power Co. and Babcock & Wilcox succeed in their plan to create electric power by burning relatively inexpensive Illinois coal cleansed of its high-sulfur content.

Lawmakers are praising the "clean coal" concept and calling for federal participation in the effort to fine-tune technology at Baldwin, Ill., ultimately eliminating emissions from coal-fired power plants.

The price tag of $150 million to $200 million is high but the benefits and savings nationally could be immense if the proposal proves to be sound and can be implemented. As Sen. Paul Simon sees it, the project could "make perfect sense for our energy policy, our environment and our economy."

West fine example for all

With the death on Monday of Dick West, the Quad City area has lost an outstanding example of how an individual can have a favorable impact on his community.

Although never an elected official or the head of a business, he helped supervise production control at Granite City Steel for a number of years, served his church as an elder, became chairman of the Salvation Army Board, advanced to president of the Granite City Rotary Club, aided United Way campaigns and carried out other, lesser-known but nevertheless significant community service tasks.

His joy at the approach of Christmas each year manifested itself in a home garage-door calendar, painted so that he could cross off each day as the festive holiday drew near.

We and many others will miss him and remember him.

Record won't break soon for newsmen of 45 years

If you're reading this, you probably already know that Bill Winter is celebrating his 45th anniversary with the Press-Record. He tells you a little about a long career on the preceding page.

But what you may not know is the kind of man he is — the man in the newsmen, a side that many people don't get to see. He probably won't like it, but I'm going to tell you for the sake of memory. I should have known better.

Bill's worn the mantle of just about every newsroom position you could imagine, from sports writer to reporter to editor. Today, he's settled in quite comfortably as copy editor, a position for which he is perfectly suited, given his historian status in this community.

Bill is a stickler for the facts. Let one bit of misinformation slip in, and he doesn't hesitate to set the record straight. Let one obituary get a misspelling, and ... well, let's just say we try not to do that. You see, to Bill, there's nothing like getting the story, unless it's getting the story right.

Like a cat burglar, he prowls the corridors of this place at all hours, ever in pursuit of the next edition. Show me the man that works as hard as this guy, and I'll show you a candidate for cardiac arrest. Forty-five years on Bill Winter's clock is probably closer to 60 years on the time clock.

He loves to talk about the old days, and I love to listen to him. To hear his memories, you'd swear this town is like no other in America. For Bill, that's probably true. He was born here, educated here and worked here all his life.

I've never met anyone quite like him when it comes to knowing a community. I've asked him few questions he couldn't answer off the top of his head. One day a few weeks ago we got into a disagreement on the date of the death of former Congressman Mel Price. I was sure I was right. So was he. I went to the file and looked it up. Chalk one up for the man with a memory. I should have known better.

We've had our share of other arguments, all of them professional, on covering issues in the Quad Cities area. But we've never disagreed over what makes a good newspaper — hard work, integrity, fairness and a continuing quest for the truth. Key ingredients to success, and I believe Bill Winter lives them daily.

During his 45 years, Bill has seen just about everything the community, he has been an active part of it, playing roles with, among others, Rotary clubs in Madison and Granite City; the Salvation Army; St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Advisory Board; and Tri-Cities Area United Way. And those are just the ones that come immediately to mind. He continues to take a great interest in new developments in town.

Granite City should take as much pride in Bill Winter as Bill takes in it.

Few newspapermen stay in one place for long. The strain gets to 'em. As one of our news editors, Nicole Vaughn, said so aptly this week: "Forty-five minutes of this place is hard to take. Forty-five years is unbelievable."

All that said, I guess I should also point out that I celebrated my anniversary with the Press-Record yesterday. Two years. It appears I've got a long way to go.

Dennis Grubaugh is managing editor of the Press-Record.

HYPONOTISM LESSON • SIX WORDS GUARANTEED TO PUT ANYONE TO SLEEP

Letters

Against toxic incinerator

To the editor:

As the citizens of Venice are well aware, I have, for the last six months, urged the Venice administration to permit the building of a trash incinerator for its obvious economic advantages to the city.

For the record, though, let me explain that my proposal was for an incinerator that would burn only "clean" trash, the kind of trash that we find everywhere in our neighborhoods.

I would not, and I repeat, would not propose that the city become involved with any kind of incinerator that would burn hazardous, toxic or highly infectious materials.

I make this statement to the citizens of Venice because it is my understanding that the city administration has been holding talks with Endico Development.

Endico Development, I believe, is a company involved with disposing of highly infectious hospital waste.

Endico Development, I believe, is the company that was turned down by Mayor Calhoun of Alton and Mayor Carol Officer of East St. Louis when it recently attempted to get a permit in those cities.

I would like for the citizens of Venice to know that I am not, in any way, involved in bringing the Endico corporation to the city of Venice.

To make myself perfectly clear, let me repeat that I have not proposed, nor would I be involved in, any attempt to bring any incinerator company to the city of Venice that would burn waste that is toxic, hazardous, highly contagious or that I deem dangerous to the health of the community.

DON GARRETT, District 23 Member, Madison County Board

Put Simon back in Senate

To the editor:

Have the press and the government been asleep? Where were they when savings and loan thieves were walking away with $500 billion of our money? How many of these guys are sitting in yachts in the Caribbean sipping martinis and laughing at us?

How about this for a litmus test for re-electing politicians in 1990: let's ask every politician: "What have you done to put these S&L people in jail?"

One public official who most certainly does pass the test is Paul Simon.

Back in 1980, he voted against the bill that started all this trouble by increasing the maximum size of insured deposits from $40,000 to $100,000. He voted against the final passage of the billout last year, saying it took too much money from the average taxpayer.

This year, he has introduced a bill allowing the Justice Department to seize and freeze the assets of S&L officials when they are indicted, so they can't send all the money they took to Swiss banks while they're waiting to be found guilty.

His bill also gives whistleblowers the right to go after these people if the government drags its feet. And he's fighting to get more money for the Justice Department and the FBI to go after these guys and make them face the music.

If we had more like Paul Simon in the Senate, we never would have had this mess. He's getting my vote in November.

WALT JONES, Edwardsville

Candidates are outstanding

To the editor:

To working men and women, poor and middle-class families. There is no reason to mention the rich and greedy at this time, except that, without a doubt, they will be trying to buy their candidates a seat in local, state and federal governments.

They're trying also to take charge of unions and of officials who serve their purpose.

I pray that you, the voter, the backbone of this great nation, will not let this happen anymore. It's up to you.

If you are not registered to vote, get registered. See your precinct committeeman, city clerk, or your local union president.

If they don't have deputy registrars, demand that they get them. The law says they union is entitled to them.

I have spent the last few days at the 29th convention of the Illinois State AFL-CIO in Springfield. I honestly believe they have endorsed the best slate of candidates in my lifetime in the union movement.

Here is briefly what they are committed to: Welfare of the little people, better education, family leave, job safety, strict laws on imports and exports, health care for all, repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, workers' right to strike without being replaced by scabs.

This should be sufficient, but include honesty and having our best interests in mind.

The Illinois AFL-CIO COPE

Cast a positive vote Nov. 6

To the editor:

All too often when I cast my vote on election day, I find myself voting against a candidate rather than for a candidate. In other words, a vote is cast for the lesser of two evils.

On Nov. 6, I am pleased to say I will be casting a very positive vote for John Shimkus for Madison County treasurer. He is one of the most sincere, hard-working, dedicated people I have met. He truly wants to be a public servant.

Shimkus is a natural leader. He is a West Point graduate and a captain in the United States Army Reserve. He is also a family man and dedicated member of his church.

In my opinion, John Shimkus will be an outstanding addition to Madison County government. Consider giving him your support.

Tiny race cars raised funds

To the editor:

On Aug. 5, K&C R.C. (radio control) Track and Hobby held the first-ever charity "Radio Control Race for Breath" to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Fund.

The weather was excellent and plenty of spectators and participants were on hand. Many local merchants donated prizes. It was a fun and exciting day for everyone.

I would like to extend grateful thanks to Steve Kraus, Jack Cox and their families, and to all of the countless volunteers who donated time and money for a worthy cause.

I can't say thank you enough. You have all done an excellent job. I will remember this the rest of my life.

JOSEPH DONALDSON

Shimkus would add balance

To the editor:

I am writing this letter in response to recent news stories regarding the campaign of John Shimkus for Madison County treasurer.

During a July 5 press conference, Shimkus was ordered to leave a "public" park by an appointed county official. When Shimkus continued his press conference on the sidewalk near the park, the Parks Department began to mow the grass as close as possible to the conference.

An employee of the treasurer's office also showed up to post campaign literature for the current treasurer.

As a final blow, various employees of the County Court-house crossed the street on an apparent 10 a.m. lunch break in order to interrupt the press conference.

What has happened in Madison County? Apparently the freedoms of speech and assembly have been revoked and we haven't heard about it yet.

Who is responsible? It is not a difficult question — Madison County politics are controlled by the Democratic Party.

We are essentially living under a one-party system where a Republican has not been elected to a countywide office for 10 years.

Our current representation consists of 33 Democrats and four Republicans. This imbalance doesn't serve the public.

What justifies this harassment? The Democrats are afraid of losing their chokehold, and possibly they have something to hide.

Abuse of power, a lack of ethics, and wasted public funds are the results we are seeing over and over, as in this press conference.

The public has a vested interest in the events of this campaign. No one should be permitted to remove our rights.

For the good of the county, listen to what John Shimkus is saying — it's time to break the monopoly.

New identity for K mart unveiled

K mart Corporation has unveiled a new retail identity symbol, signaling change and innovation for the 2,300-store network.

"K mart has always had a strong and highly recognizable image," said K mart Chairman Joseph E. Antonini.

"We want our retail identity to represent what K mart's about today. This new symbol keeps K mart in step with the times and reflects the dynamism and excitement of the company's commitment to renewal. We are particularly delighted to be unveiling this new identity symbol at one of our new prototype stores for the '90s, in Oak Park, Mich."

K mart Corp. announced in February 1990 an accelerated five-year, $2.3 billion new-store opening, enlargement and modernization program.

This program involves building 250 new full-size K mart stores, enlarging 625 current stores, relocating 280 others and refurbishing the remaining 1,260 to bring their layout and fixturing up to new-store standards.

The new red and white logo captures the company's strategic plan for the '90s with a bold red "K" incorporating the word "mart" into the design.

The main sign at each building will be illuminated. Made of acrylic and aluminum, it will be stronger and easier to maintain than the existing signs.

"K mart has pushed forward its program of creating a chain of stores offering quality, brand-name merchandise in modern, attractive surroundings," said Ken Love, partner and creative director at Anspach, Grossman, Portugal Inc. (AGP), one of the world's leading design firms.

"Creating a great American institution, and yet articulating the reality of the company as a world-class retailer, made this project exciting and challenging for AGP," said Love. "The program, however, is more than just a new logo; it includes the redesign of every visual aspect of K mart. This offers an organized approach to identification and visual communication."

The identity program created by AGP includes new color typography, standards and guidelines for all media, including signs, employee apparel, advertising, tags, etc.

K mart would prefer all stores to have the new retail logo in place today. However, since that is physically impossible, the program will be rolled out in phases.

All newly built and expanded stores will carry the new logo in external and internal signage and details. Other stores will have new signage in place as they are refurbished.

The company expects the program to be completed, simultaneously with the store modernization program, in 1995.

"Our customers have always supported their local K mart store when we have remodeled or expanded," said Antonini. "We hope they will be patient through this transition period as well."

K mart's new retail identity symbol is part of its ongoing program to create more effective communication with its customer base, including marketing and advertising.

In 1987, the company reorganized its hard-goods buying departments into six well-defined divisions to develop departments with category dominance. They include Kitchen Corner, Bed and Bath, Home Care and Horticulture departments, Apparel and Sporting Goods, and Automotive Accessories departments.

In early 1988, the company began distributing seven-day duration ad circulars once a week, rather than the previous twice-a-week distribution.

Buyers pick own floor plan at Holiday Gardens

By Roger McGrath

GRANITE CITY — Holiday Gardens No. 3, a 16-home addition to the popular Granite City subdivision of the same name, occupies "a perfect location," says George Crews, vice president of Tierce-Crews Inc., the developer.

The tract on Maryville Road, between Pontoon Road and Clark Avenue, is centrally located in St. Louis, close to many businesses and shopping.

Better yet, "we're a perfect location for anyone working in St. Louis," downtown, via Route 162 to I-255, or the employment centers of north St. Louis County, via Route 203 to I-270, Crews says.

The drive to I-270 takes about five minutes. I-255 is about 10 minutes away.

"I live there myself; it really is a convenient location," says Crews, who also is owner of Crews Realty, Better Homes & Gardens, the real estate firm handling sales at Holiday Gardens No. 3.

Buyers of the quarter-acre home sites can hire their own builder or retain Tierce-Crews. Crews says all the homes are available from Better Homes & Gardens. We have a collection of plan books; they can build anything that's being built in the country," he says.

One building restriction requires that each driveway include a turn-around pad so homeowners can drive forward into traffic on Maryville Road, which gets busy during rush hour.

Other building restrictions match those of the 25-year-old Holiday Gardens — principally all-brick front elevation and a two-car attached garage. Homes must have a minimum of 1,200 square feet.

The buyers — mostly move-ups and all from Granite City so far — want larger, more spacious quarters, Crews says. "They're wanting two bathrooms, a two-car garage. It's a step up for them," he says.

Residents' children attend Frohardt Elementary School and Granite City High School; St. Elizabeth parish school is within walking distance.

Crews predicts that most home prices, including the lot, will be in the $100,000 to $120,000 range. Tierce-Crews recently completed a $125,000 ranch house and has started work on a 1,900-square-foot split-level home and a "gorgeous little house," a 1,500-square-foot ranch designed by Better Homes & Gardens to maximize living space.

That three-bedroom plan (with $7,000 worth of windows and a sunken living room) is priced at $110,000.

Sears to reward shoppers

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has announced a new "frequent shopper" program for more than 40 million SearsCharge card holders, enabling credit customers to turn merchandise certificates to save money on future Sears purchases.

Called the SearsCharge Bonus Club, the program begins in Sept. when SearsCharge customers automatically began earning credit toward certificates valued at 1 percent of every SearsCharge purchase.

The newest Everything's A $1 store opened in the St. Clair Square mall in Fairview Heights.

Using an art-deco theme, Everything's A $1 uses bright lights, neon and music to enhance the shopping experience.

As the "five and dime" of the '90s, the store offers a wide range of merchandise, including cosmetics, health and beauty products, jewelry, sunglasses, toys, books and gifts, all priced at $1.

The store has approximately 4,100 square feet of merchandise selling space and is located at 223 St. Clair Square.

Michael I. Porter, president of Everything's A $1, said, "We are excited to be expanding our operations into the Fairview Heights area, and we look forward to offering the people quality merchandise at all our $1 stores."

"We anticipate our new store will become the one-stop value store for the people of Fairview Heights and surrounding areas."

Everything's A $1 is a division of Value Merchants Inc., the Milwaukee-based operator of Everything's A $1 retail stores and 99 Toy Liquidators and Toys Unlimited retail outlets nationwide.

Value Merchants Inc., which also is a major national toy wholesaler, is a publicly-owned company whose stock is traded in the NASDAQ national market system under the symbol VLMR.

Researchers know who you are, what you do

By Roger McGrath

When it comes to backyard barbecues, few other cities compare to the St. Louis metropolitan area.

In fact, on a per-capita basis, no city consumes as much barbecue sauce as St. Louis.

St. Louis households perhaps take to heart the exhortations of a barbecue master to "don't baste your barbecue, Maull it." In any case, they buy 2.4 bottles of the tomato-based coating for every 10 bottles the average American family brings home, according to Arbitron, the market research firm.

Further evidence of the local commitment to outdoor grilling: Of 54 major markets, St. Louis is sixth when it comes to the amount of charcoal lighter each household uses; ninth, when it comes to charcoal.

The backyard barbecue is a bigger part of the culture in St. Louis than other cities, says Glenn Jamboer, a native son and president of Glenn & Co., a downtown ad agency.

Marketing executives in offices from New York City to Los Angeles also know that — thanks to market research.

They take data compiled by Arbitron, Simmons Market Research Bureau and other research firms, and match it with other market studies. Put together, the research paints an "incredibly" accurate picture of the St. Louis lifestyle, says Richard Rencamp, president of Westgate Research, a Creve Coeur market research firm.

"I don't think the population knows just how accurate a properly drawn sample can be," Rencamp says.

By randomly interviewing a "sample," a certain number of people, researchers can uncover local practices — a love of bar-

Nearly 41 percent of St. Louisans use video cassette recorders, which ranks 18th nationwide; and 15.7 percent take pains to buy the latest fashions, placing St. Louisans 37th nationally.

becuing, for example — and trends.

The fastest growing category in the refrigerated cases of St. Louis area supermarkets is puddings, Arbitron reports.

"These surveys can be exceptionally representative and valid," Rencamp says.

Consider St. Louisans' love of decorating home and hearth. Nearly 24 percent of St. Louis households the fourth highest incidence in 212 U.S. television markets — are "active" in the home furnishing and decorating market, according to the Lifestyle Market Analyst of Wilmette, Ill.

Lifestyle notes that stocks and bonds are owned by 15.5 percent of St. Louisans, which is defined by the study as everyone who can tune in local television stations in an area that covers 16 Illinois and 18 Missouri counties.

This means the area has the 11th highest percentage of such ownership in the country.

Nearly 41 percent of St. Louisans use video cassette recorders, which ranks 18th nationwide; and 15.7 percent take pains to buy the latest fashions, placing St. Louisans 37th nationally.

At the other end of the spectrum, St. Louisans rank 174th in use of recreational and four-wheel-drive vehicles (7 percent of households), 172nd in consumption of health foods and vitamins (12.8 percent) and 135th in bicycle usage (12.6 percent), according to the study. "You can take a mental picture" of the St. Louis market, says Glenn DeWees, executive vice president of TBWA Kerlick Switzer, a local advertising agency.

Marketers, however, like to break those lifestyle trends down into ZIP Code, neighborhood, even individual blocks because people of similar income, education and employment generally live in the same area.

Ad man Steve Puckett, of The Puckett Group, calls it the birds-of-a-feather-flock-together syndrome.

Puckett uses the Prizm method developed by Claritas Corp., whose Atlanta researchers have identified 40 different American lifestyles, or clusters.

Example: "Young Suburbia" is today's most affluent. They are "baby boomers" who, to find affordable housing, live on the fringe of the metro area in a house with a median value of $93,281 and an above-ground swimming pool.

Their median income is $32,492. They watch "Cheers" and "Night Court" on television, and they are 20 percent more likely than the average American to buy fruit juices, baked beans, pretzels and frozen pizzas.

Almost two-thirds of the residents of St. Peters fit that bill.

About 80 percent of Chesterfield residents fit the "Pursuing Wagon" cluster; 78 percent of Ladue residents are "Blue Blood Estates"; and 71 percent of Florissant residents are "Blue Chip Blues."

"The finer you break it down, the better it is for marketers," says Ian Cohen, general manager and executive vice president of Glenn & Co. in St. Louis.

Puckett is using cluster research to develop an inventory plan for Ralston Purina Co. retailers. His goal is to develop a program so that a retailer can give Ralston the ZIP Code of his store and the consumer goods company will be able to recommend a stocking pattern that will be heavy in items consumed by people in his trade area.

Researchers continue to fine-tune their data. For instance, Puckett learned that the incidence of call-waiting service in a South Side exchange was seven times greater than the telephone company average. So he is analyzing that exchange to determine which cluster is predominant. He will use the information gathered to develop a marketing campaign.

That is why market researchers want to know all they can about consumers — so they can develop effective, well-targeted marketing campaigns.

"You can literally pick a TV program that the target cluster is known to watch, Cohen says. "You like to put your media where the fish are swimming."

Puckett did that for one client. He identified the appropriate clusters, and then advertised on television shows they watch. A campaign that generated 600 calls a month, up from 50.

Market research is a "surprisingly good" indicator of consumer behavior, DeWees says.

DeWees goes a step further, saying, "The research is 'incredibly accurate.' In the 10 years I've been working with Prizm, I've never seen it fail," he says.

Korte accepts BAC fund drive position

Ralph Korte, chairman of the board of Korte Construction Co., has accepted a leadership role in the first formal fund drive planned by the Belleville Area College Foundation.

The drive will seek private gifts to support a variety of activities not part of the college's on-going budget. Gifts may be designated for scholarship endowments or a variety of other foundation funds.

The goal for the drive is $50,000.

Korte, a Highland resident, is no stranger to Belleville Area College.

He started his college education there and was one of the founders of the Construction Management Technology program, a program which provides the academic background, technical specialization and field experience to begin a career in construction management.

"I know the value of that program and what it has done for the industry," said Korte.

"Our company today has sales of $155 million and without our college-educated employees, I feel our sales would have been about $5 million. I feel strongly about education."

As a regional drive chairman, Korte will be working with key business, corporate and community leaders in outer Madison County.

The theme of the drive is "A Time of Opportunity."

Korte founded Korte Construction Company in 1958 in Highland and under his guidance developed the company into one of the largest construction firms in the St. Louis Metropolitan area. Headquartered in St. Louis, Korte Construction is a leader in many diversified areas of construction, including offices, retail, health care, and industrial.

He is active in numerous business and professional organizations, as well as philanthropic and community activities. These include:

President of Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council, board member of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association, Kilo Foundation, Arts and Education Council, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Foundation, and the St. Louis Public Library Foundation.

This year he received the "Entrepreneur of the Year" award from Ernst and Young, P.C.

Korte holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

BALANCED: The Student Leadership Development Program of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for high school students was designed to test participants' abilities to solve problems through teamwork, including balancing a teeter-totter. From left are Roberta Harshaw of Venice High School; Darla Mayhall of Granite City High School; Fannie Hodges of East St. Louis High School; Janelle Henson, (partially hidden) of Columbia High School; K'She Stringer and Stephanie Yarbrough, both of East St. Louis High; Brenda Gibbons and Amy Wilson, both of Edwardsville High School; Susie Watters, of Columbia High; Erik Scott of Roxana High School; Jason Stanley of Columbia High; and Andrew Jenkins of Granite City High.

Cougar Cards available to honor roll students

The Gold Cougar Card, a pass enabling area high school honor roll students to attend cultural, athletic and entertainment events on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus at Student admission rates, will be available again this year.

Fall events for which the Gold Cougar Card may be used include programs in the Arts and Issues series. The card entitles its bearer to attend programs at the student rate of $2. The series this year features renowned speakers Loretta Long and Dr. Henry Heimlich, and entertainers like Doug Varone and Dancers, the Famous People Players and jazz great, Dave Brubeck.

The Gold Cougar Card may also be used to attend University theater productions and most athletic events at SIUE student rates, including basketball games and track and field events.

The University initiated the card as a means of recognizing outstanding academic achievement among high school students. The card is available to honor roll students at high schools within an approximate 15-mile radius of the University. Students may obtain application forms for the card from their principals.

School officials wanting additional information about the Gold Cougar Card program may contact Pam Voss at the University, 692-2826.

Graduates from Patricia Stevens

Kimberly Stavelly, daughter of Darrin and Wanda Stavelly of Granite City, graduated from Patricia Stevens College in St. Louis. Kimberly graduated with a Fashion Merchandising degree in ceremonies on Aug. 25 at the college.

Woman qualifies for college list

Lori Wyatt, a student of Patricia Stevens College, St. Louis was placed on the President's List for the summer quarter. This honor is achieved by maintaining a 3.65 grade average with perfect attendance and deemed eligible by the faculty. Wyatt is the daughter of Bill and Shirley Wyatt of Granite City.

Local students on dean's list.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville had 275 students qualifying for the dean's list for the summer quarter.

To qualify for the dean's list, a student must maintain a grade-point average of 4.5 or better and have 12 hours calculated (B is equivalent to 4.0, A to 5.0).

Students qualifying for the dean's list are named below by hometown:

Granite City: Carole Angle, Jennifer Davis, Deborah Epperson, Patricia Fountain, Kathryn Grippi, Greg Headberg, Brigitte Kittel, Kim Myracle, Elizabeth Parker, Christopher Poiter and Todd Shelton.

Madison: Ida Lee Backels, Mitchell: Raben Andrews.

FRIENDSHIPS are important in the movie "The Lemon Sisters," which stars Elliott Gould and Diane Keaton.

Elliott Gould still is around but not at top of marquee

By Harry Hamm
Staff writer

Actor Elliott Gould says he is "quite happy" with his work with Diane Keaton, Carol Kane and Kathryn Brody in "The Lemon Sisters," which essentially is a buddy film about three women who grow up in Atlantic City, N.J.

Gould plays Brody's husband, Frank, who must counterbalance his wife's penchant for overspending. This element of the script becomes critical when Frank advises his wife about what to do with the $100,000 she makes on the sale of her family's taffy store on the Boardwalk to investors who want to build a new casino.

Gould, 52, says he believes the film will "work for a relative audience."

"The subject matter is a bonding friendship between women," he says. "It's about commitment and change and sticking together and overcoming the reality of how our world and our nature are being taken over by break-away industries."

When he refers to "breakaway industries," Gould means companies that put corporate gain before the public good or individual's welfare. In the "Lemon Sisters," these obviously are the companies that own the gambling casinos proliferating in Atlantic City.

Gould and his second wife, Jennifer Bogart, whom he has married twice, 1974 and 1977, have two children. But he is quick to mention Jason, the 24-year-old son of a failed marriage with Barbra Streisand, who wants to follow in his dad's footsteps.

Jason is working in North Carolina on his first feature film, "Prince of Tides," a movie in which he plays the son of a mother portrayed by Streisand, who also is directing the film.

Gould, born Elliott Goldstein in Brooklyn, N.Y., attended the Professional Children's School in New York City and worked summers at resorts in the "hottest belt" in the Catskills before getting his first role on the Broadway stage in 1962 in "I Can Get It For You Wholesale." Streisand and Gould met during the show and wed the following year.

Gould's breakthrough film was "The Night They Raided Minsky's" in 1968. He received an Academy Award nomination for his work in "Bob & Ted & Carol & Alice." He is perhaps best known for the role of Trapper John in Robert Altman's 1970

hit, "M*A*S*H."

But he gets most sentimental when talking about his starring role in "A Bridge Too Far" in 1977.

"My character, Bobby Stig, the guy who actually oversees the building of the bridge, was the only one that wasn't in the book," Gould says. "My character was supposed to represent a blue collar, ethnic element of the working class that the producers felt they wanted in the film."

However, when reminded that "A Bridge Too Far" was the last box-office hit Gould has helped headline, his sentiment turns into a politely defensive posture.

"I've been doing more than most people are aware of," he says. "I've just rebuffed from North Africa where I filmed on a project for that area in Casablanca and Marrakesh. It was my first experience in the Islamic culture and it was eye-opening and enlightening."

When asked what might come next in his career, Gould likens acting to life and says each has equal amounts of pleasure and pain.

"I'm encouraged about my future possibilities," he says. "I'm not trying to avoid anything. I'm not afraid to try something new. There's an entire generation out there who never heard of 'Bob & Ted & Carol & Alice' and some who never heard of 'M*A*S*H.'"

"I'm constantly re-evaluating everything. Life is like a spaceship. We all need mid-course corrections."

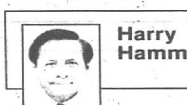

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

'Men at Work' Film fails as comedy, thriller

Movies that are family affairs seldom work artistically, and that's the trap on "Men at Work" (R), a motion picture headlined by brothers Emilio Estevez and Charlie Sheen.

Written by Estevez, "Men at Work" also is his second film as a director. His first, "Wisdom" in 1988, was a critical and box office flop.

"Men at Work" is the story of two garbage truck workers in Los Angeles, played by Estevez and Sheen, who seem to have a swell time hanging on to their truck and employing other people's trash containers. They dream of opening a surfer's equipment shop some day. But the find their work on the truck a swell experience and enjoy causing trouble for their crew chief, who has the really cushy job of driving the garbage-truck. It's not much of a career, but at least it's upwind.

After a happy-go-lucky set up, "Men at Work" takes a stab at turning semiserious when the two intrepid trash specialists discover a dead body in a garbage container. This corpse is no ordinary guy. He turns out to be a Los Angeles councilman who is a candidate for mayor. Viewers learn as the events unfold that the councilman also is, being investigated for his involvement in the cover-up of an investigation into a toxic waste dump.

"Men at Work" starts to fall apart when the body is found, at which point the little humor there was disappears. Attempts at developing intrigue or suspense after the body is found fall painfully short.

Emilio Estevez is a talented actor and a nice young man with excellent intentions. But as "Men at Work" plainly shows, he is far from being able to wear simultaneously the two most important hats in any movie, those of star and director.

Rated PG-13. Running time: 98 minutes. Rating guide:  excellent; , good; *, average; *, poor.

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

Art shows at Belleville campus

Three art shows featuring paintings and drawings will be shown at the Belleville Area College, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville.

One of the shows, "The Real McCoy's," is a collection of graphite drawings by brothers Glenn and Gary McCoy, both BAC graduates. The drawings may be seen in the Downstairs Gallery, next to the President's Office. The other is a show of 12 regional artists.

Both shows, sponsored by BAC's Visual Arts Club, will be on display through Sept. 28.

The third exhibit, "The Non-Western Art Show," includes an extensive representation of African art from private collections in the area.

Pieces will be placed in the second floor display case near the campus library and will be displayed through Sept. 25.

Ducks Unlimited plans meat shoot

WATERLOO — The Monroe County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited will sponsor a fall meat shoot on Sunday, Sept. 23, at the Ranch House, south of Waterloo, on Illinois 3.

Prizes include hams, bacon, turkeys, pork loins, a 12-gauge shotgun and .22-caliber rifle.

Quilts, coverlets to be on display

More than 100 quilts and coverlets will be displayed throughout the recently restored 1836 Weir House (the Mason County Historical Museum) from Sept. 23 through Oct. 28.

The Museum, located at 715 North Main St., Edwardsville, is open to the public on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons from 1 to 4.

Warriors look to remain perfect against Collinsville

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — Wait a minute! Can this be true? Do my eyes deceive me? Are the Warriors really 3-0 this season? Yes, those are the facts three weeks into the football season. The Granite City Warriors, a team that only won five games the last three years combined, have suddenly established themselves as the Cinderella of the gridiron world.

The Warriors continued their march towards respectability last week with a 17-0 shut out on the road of Belleville West, a team that had beaten them three straight years — all by shut out. But while the quick start has amazed everyone in association with the Warriors, head coach Tom Wyrostek is taking things in stride.

"I'm very proud of my players," said Wyrostek. "But we can't start thinking things are granted. I have start thinking like that, we'll be right back to where we were in the recent past. Our kids have worked very hard to make this a special season, and so far, everything has fallen into place for us."

"I can't say what people thought of us coming into the season, but our players have done the job on the field. There's a burning hunger in this group to succeed. And it's shown in their performance and their leadership on the field. I'm very pleased with the start."

Granite City's biggest asset in the early season has been defense. The Warriors currently own the best defense in the area. They've only surrendered 19 points in three games (an average of 6.3 points-per-game), while earning shut out.

"Granite City is for real," said Collinsville coach Bob Hollingshead. "Beating Cahokia in the first game of the season (Aug. 31) gave them the boost of confidence they needed to accomplish their goals. The carry-over has allowed them to pick up victories against Quincy and Belleville West. They're legitimate, and I'm expecting quite a challenge on Friday night."

"But Granite City's biggest asset is coach Wyrostek. I worked for him as an assistant (in 1984) and I learned a lot of football from him. He's a tremendous motivator, and he can turn a marginal player into a very good one."

"The kids are responsible for everything that's happened," said Wyrostek. "We allow them to pose a challenge against one another in practice to earn a starting spot. Football is a team sport, but it depends on the individuals playing to do their jobs. And so far, we've had everyone contribute in one way or another."

On paper, the Warriors should pick up another victory on Friday against the Kahoks (1-2 overall; 0-1 in Southwestern Conference play), setting the stage for their showdown with East St. Louis next week. But Wyrostek isn't counting on Collinsville to just roll over and play dead.

BOB THOMAS has been a major catalyst for Granite City's fast start.

"Collinsville is a physical football team and they have some toughness that will give us problems in the open field," said Wyrostek. "Our kids will feel the contact in that game. That's why we can't go in there looking towards next week. This is a very important conference game for us. A loss could really set us back on our heels."

The Warriors have displayed a strong running game in the first three games that's piled up 510 yards. Running back Mike Vaughn leads the assault with 210 yards rushing (a 6.3 average) and four touchdowns.

"We must find a way to stop their running game," said Hollingshead. "We don't have a lot of depth on our roster, so we must stop Granite City from pounding the ball down our throats. Otherwise, they'll simply wear us down and we won't be able to keep the game close."

But while Hollingshead is concerned with Granite City's running game, Wyrostek knows the Kahoks aren't too shabby about putting some points on the board themselves.

"Collinsville can score some points," said Wyrostek. "They've scored 43 points in three games, and against some pretty good teams. We must frustrate them with our defense. I don't want to get into a shootout with them. This will be a competitive game, and it will definitely test us, both physically and mentally."

Trojans hope to nail down first win against Central

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

MADISON — The Trojans are hoping to break into the win column this week against Breese Central.

The contest will showcase a pair of youthful teams that have been bitten by the bug of inexperience in the early season. Madison (0-2) has been outscored 97-12 in its first two games, while Central (0-3) hasn't fared much better, being outscored 124-15 to open the year.

To many, this encounter will feature a pair of programs trying to nail down one of its few victories this season. But in reality, the contest will be a confidence builder for a pair of programs searching for that guiding light of success.

"Our kids needed a week off following our convincing loss to Columbia (63-6 on Sept. 14)," said Madison coach Don Smith. "We got pretty banged up in that game, and it would have taken its toll on us if we had to play last week. For the most part, we've healed up our bumps and bruises. Now we'll be playing a program that is equal to us in talent. This game will give our younger players the opportunity to build some confidence."

dence, while performing under game situations that can produce a victory."

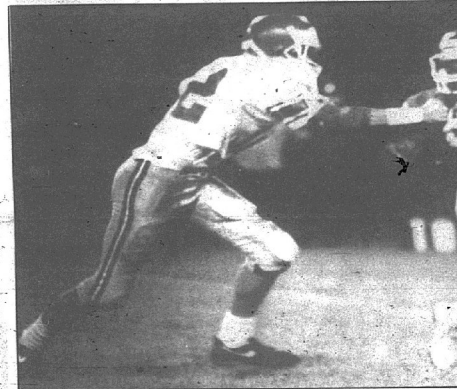

A big concern for Smith and the Trojans though, is the availability of quarterback Cernyn Thomas, who severely sprained his ankle in the Columbia game. Thomas, who started the season behind Frederico Walker, has taken over as offensive leader. But his status for tomorrow's game is listed as probable.

"Cernyn gives us a lot of experience at quarterback," said Smith. "Having him back there against Central would be a tremendous asset because he has varsity experience, and he knows how to react in certain situations. If he's unable to play, it could even up the contest quite a bit."

Waiting in the wings, if Thomas can't play, is freshman Jason Jones. The 5'7, 145 pound quarterback has speed, but it would be his first varsity experience at the position. Which is why, Smith is counting on his running game to pick up the slack.

"Central doesn't have a lot of speed, but they're very aggressive around the ball," said Smith. "I scouted them last week (against Cahokia) and they did well against Cahokia and they did well against Cahokia."

TONY TREADWAY and the Trojans hope to make Breese Central their first victory this season.

Rain cancels game with Belleville West

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — The Warriors had their scheduled Southwestern Conference match with Belleville West canceled on Tuesday because of rain.

The heavy rainfall flooded Laderman Park and made it impossible to play the match. The contest will be rescheduled, but no future date has been announced. So, the Warriors remain in undefeated in conference play (3-0), while sitting on top of the standings.

The day off also played in the Warriors' favor because it gives them a little more time to rest Larry Strader's injured knee.

"The day off will definitely help our bumps and bruises," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "Larry's knee has kept him out of the line up and it's hurt us offensively. But some of the younger kids have come up and played well off the bench. We were planning on giving Larry another week of rest before letting him play on that knee."

"So, having the cancellation, you could say, worked in our favor because that's one less game we have to play without Larry. But at the same time, not playing hurts the development of our younger players. Those kids need time to play, while that can create depth on your bench late in the season."

The Warriors (3-2 overall) are coming off a 2-0 whitewash of Quincy on Saturday at the Gunbelt. The loss was Quincy's first this season. First period goals by Brent Duppel, his first of the season, and Jeff Stephens ignited the victory. But defense has been the name of the game for the Warriors, through the first seven games.

"We've done a good job of keeping our opponents limited on offense," said Baker. "A good example went our effort on Saturday. We held a very good Quincy team to only three shots on goal, and a big reason for that has been our defense."

JASON MAXFIELD and the Warriors enjoyed a rare day off on Tuesday. But it's back to business today against Cahokia.

Granite City still winless

By Brian Henry
Journal correspondent

GRANITE CITY — It's the general consensus among volleyball coaches in the metro-area that the Belleville West Maroons are the team to beat. The Maroons did nothing to dispel that opinion as they rolled past Granite City 15-1, 15-2 on Tuesday at Memorial Gymnasium.

With the victory, West remains unbeaten (10-0 overall; 3-0 in Southwestern Conference play) as they tune up for an important weekend tournament in Chicago where they'll face up-state stalwarts — Mother McCauley (ranked No. 1 in the state in Class AA) and Oak Lawn Richards.

"Our team has played seriously and that has paid off," said Belleville West coach Charles Rodman. "This weekend, we'll find out where we stand with the best in the state."

The Warriors are a different story altogether. With the loss Tuesday, and a tough setback at the hands of Wood River on Monday, Granite City (0-6 overall; 0-3 in conference play) remains winless on the season.

"The girls just haven't come together yet," said Granite City coach Natalie Buster. "I don't know what's happening."

The Warriors were blitzed from the beginning of the match as Amy Johansen began the onslaught by racking up nine consecutive points to open the first game. The Maroons' Marlene Triefenbach, an all-metro selection last year, finished off the Warriors with two of her six points.

"Marlene does everything that the big-time players do," said Rodman. "There is nothing she can't do on a volleyball court."

was the play of Stephanie Kunt. The junior had two of the three Warrior points and her ace to begin the second game gave Granite City their only lead of the match.

That lead was quickly erased when West's Rena Zenarosa reeled off a string of seven consecutive points, including two aces, to decide the issue. West, ranked eighth in the state in Class AA, has not allowed more than seven points in any game this season.

"They're really good," said Buster. "Good isn't even the word for it. They have an excellent coach who works his kids hard and gets results."

With the 0-6 start, Buster has leaned towards giving her younger players more playing time and she hopes that with the extra experience, her team can come around.

"The more they play, the more experience they'll gain, and hopefully they will become a better team," said Buster. "In the future, we'll definitely have a better team."

NOTES: The Warriors turned in their best effort of the year on Monday at Wood River. Unfortunately, the results were the same as the Oilers knocked out the Warriors, 15-15, 15-15. Granite City had an 8-0 lead in the third game, but could only manage three points the rest of the way.

been our ability to control the mid-field area. (Jim) McKeehan has been a big plus for us in that area of the field. He's aggressive, and he has the capabilities to pick up the loose ball, while starting an offensive attack the other way."

Since his return, McKeehan has been a central figure for the Warriors. In his first game back (Sept. 11) against Belleville East, McKeehan scored a goal and set up another in a 3-1 victory. And while he didn't score on Saturday against Quincy, McKeehan backboned a defensive effort that limited Quincy to only three shots on goal and a corner kick.

"Players like Jim are very important to our cause," said Baker. "We need that type of effort on all three segments of the field. Forcing your opponent to play a defensive brand of soccer will nullify their attack, while creating an abundance of opportunities for us in their zone."

That was the case against Quincy. Both of Granite City's goals resulted from a scramble in front of the net. The Blue Devils couldn't clear the ball out of danger, and in turn, they left Duppel and Stephens with a pair of wide-open shots towards the net.

The Warriors will play their next two games on the road. Granite City travels to Cahokia this afternoon (4:00 p.m.), before a Saturday engagement at Quincy-Notre Dame on Saturday morning at 11:00 a.m.

Cahokia will feature an interesting test for the Warriors. Over-confidence is Baker's biggest concern. The Comanches, a program on the decline the last few years, are currently 1-7, while mired in a six-game losing streak.

"We can't go into that game taking things for granted," said Baker. "Yes, their program has been struggling of late, but it's a road game and anything can happen away from home. We usually like to use a game of this caliber as a testing ground for our younger players to pick up some experience. However, our veterans must set the tone for the contest early for that to happen. If they don't, then we could be in for quite a test. (Cahokia), despite their record, will be out to play us tough. A win against us will surely make their season."

The Warriors blanked Cahokia 5-0 last season.

Trojans

like to play an eagle defense, which is spread out on the field. If they utilize the same game plan against us, then we'll go with James Wellmaker and (Tony) Treadway inside. Hopefully, that will suck them in eventually and open up the outside lanes."

"Madison has some tremendous athletes," said Central coach Jim Falconio, in his first season at the helm. "They'll give our young people quite a test on the defensive end of the field. But we'll be ready to play; our people aren't discouraged from the start we've had. Hell, we've got five playoff teams on our schedule, and our conference (Cahokia Conference) speaks for itself. This is a game our people believe they can win and we're approaching it that way."

The Cougars are led by running backs Terry Wilkin, Jeremy Tebbe and John Wuebbles, who doubles as linebacker, defensive end Eli Klaber, corner back Jason Schulte, and corner back Derrick Hsumann anchor the defense.

"We've got some decent athletes, but due to our competition, the kids have gotten off to a slow start," said Falconio. "But that's no excuse. They'll have a long way to go with this program, and the coaching staff is confident that we'll turn things around."

"I definitely don't want to start the season with an 0-3 record," said Smith. "Our goal is to finish with a .500 record and we need this game to fulfill that desire."

Baker runs soccer clinic on Sept. 29

The Southwestern District of the Illinois Association for health, physical education, recreation and dance is sponsoring its fall workshop at the SIU-Edwardsville Vandalabene Center on Sept. 29.

The program will consist of four sessions: 1.) "Fry now, pay later," 2.) Physical education concerns for the 1990's, and two coaching clinics.

Gene Baker, soccer coach at Granite City High School will present a soccer clinic, while Fred Rakers, head volleyball coach at (Breesse) Mater Dei, and Charlie Rodman, head volleyball coach at Belleville West, will present volleyball clinics.

Registration will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 9:00 a.m., and the program concludes at 1:00 p.m. The workshop is open to all interested teachers and coaches. Pre-registration may be sent to Wanda Graham, 3136 Myrtle Ave., Granite City, Ill., 62040. The cost is $5 for

Golf, tennis teams rained out

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY—Mother Nature played havoc with the sports schedule on Tuesday and forced a few postponements in the area.

Granite City's triangular golf meet with Belleville East and East St. Louis at the Arlington Golf Course was canceled by the heavy rains in the area. The match will be rescheduled at a later date.

The match would have been a good test for the Warriors' golf team, which was coming off a record performance last Friday against Civic Memorial and Triad. The top four golfers—Joe Brewer, Allen Ledbetter, Steve Rains and Bill McCormick—all shot under 40 to lead the Warriors to a 10-stroke victory over Civic Memorial.

The golfers have put together a fine season so far, winning 11 of 16 matches. Ironically, Chris Sturdivant, who wasn't among the top golfers on Friday, and McCormick lead the Warriors on the links with an average of 41.8. The pair is closely followed by Ledbetter (42); Brewer, Rains and Ryan Mueller (42.8); and Gabe Mitchell (43.8).

The golf team returns to action, weather permitting, with a road meet against O'Fallon, Mascoutah and Civic Memorial this afternoon. The quadrangular meet is scheduled to start at 4:00 p.m. The Warriors then travel to Centralia for an invitational tournament on Saturday (9:00 a.m.).

The tennis team suffered a similar fate on Tuesday as their dual meet at Althoff was postponed by rain. That match will also be rescheduled, but no make up date has been announced yet.

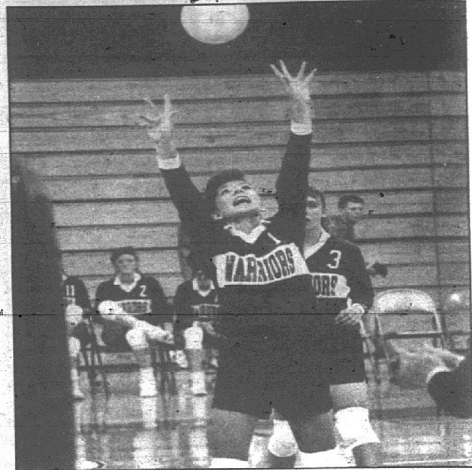

The Warriors played at East St. Louis on Wednesday (4:00 p.m.), and they will play in the Civic Memorial Invitational on Saturday (9:00 a.m.).

Details of the golf and tennis results will appear in Wednesday's Journal.

U.S. Coast Guard Academy now accepting applications

The United States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1995. Applications are being accepted for both men and women.

Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional nominations or geographical quotas. Applications must be submitted to the director of admissions prior to Dec. 15.

Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) or including the December 1990 ACT and SAT test administrations.

Appointments as cadet are tendered based on the candidate's high school record, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school activities, community affairs, and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and have demonstrated proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

Candidates must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1991.

All candidates must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1991. All candidates must have completed a minimum of three years of English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

Coast Guard Cadets obtain an undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses.

The academy curriculum leads to a bachelor of science degree with an academic emphasis on engineering and science. The selected major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career.

Graduates of the academy are commissioned as ensigns in the United States Coast Guard. Selected officers may pursue further postgraduate education and specialized training at many leading civilian and military graduate or professional schools, in such fields as aviation, business administration, law, engineering, law and oceanography.

Military

Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard performs a variety of missions. These include search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintenance of advanced electronic aids to navigation around the globe, operation of icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforcement of marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety.

In addition, the Coast Guard has responsibility for boating safety and marine environmental protection.

To obtain an application or further information write: Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, 15 Mohegan Ave., New London, CT 06320; or call (203) 444-8501.
